Would not be Without

VEGETINE!

FOR TEN TIMES ITS COST.

The great benefit I received from the use of VEGETINE induces me to give my testimony in its favor. I believe it to be not only of great value for restoring the health, but a preventive of diseases peculiar to the spring and summer seasons.
I would not be without it for ten times its cost.
EDWIN TILDEN,
Attorney, and General Agent for Massachusetts of the Craftsmen's Life Assurance Company, No. 49 Sears Building, Boston, Mass.

VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood and Restores the Health.

WHAT IS VEGETINE?

It is a compound extracted from barks, roots and herbs. It is Nature's Remedy. It is perfectly harmless from any bad effect upon the system. It is nourishing and strengthening. It acts directly upon the blood. It quiets the nervous system. It gives you good, sweet sleep at night. It is a great panacea for our aged fathers and mothers, for it gives them strength, quiets their nerves, and gives them Nature's sweet sleep, as has been proved by many an aged person. It is a great Blood Purifier. It is a soothing remedy for our children. It has relieved and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it.

Marvelous Effect.

MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I have used the great Blood Remedy, Vegetine, and feel it a duty to acknowledge the great benefit it has done me. In the Spring of the year 1862, I was sick from general debility caused by overwork, want of sleep and proper rest. I was very weak and much emaciated. I tried many remedies without receiving any benefit from any of them, until I was persuaded to try Vegetine. Before I had taken this one week, my improved condition gave me renewed hope and courage. I continued to take it every day, gaining more strength, until I was completely restored to health. The effect of this remedy, in case of general debility, is indeed marvellous.
ELIZABETH A. FOLEY,
May 3d, 1871, 21 Webster St., Charlestown, Mass.

CHALESTOWN, June 11, 1861.
MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—This is to certify that Vegetine made a perfect cure of me when my attending physician has pronounced my case consumption, and said I could not survive many days.
MRS. LEDSTON, 35 Cook Street.
The facts stated by Mrs. Ledston are personally known by me, and they are true.
A. D. HAYNES.

Pebble Powder.

The persistent efforts that are being made to increase the power of artillery has given rise to some strange results, among which is the necessity for what is to be known henceforth as pebble powder. The guns on the British iron-clad Devastation are of thirty-five tons—the largest afloat. They carry a projectile weighing 700 pounds; but it has been found that every time they are fired they score the iron decks of the ship. This at first could not be accounted for, but it is now found to be caused by the grains of powder that have not had time to be consumed within the guns.—To remedy this, the guns are to be lengthened: for to move so heavy a weight as the shot they throw, a slow-burning powder is essential. To accomplish this the grains of the powder hitherto used have been about the size of ordinary marbles. It is now proposed to increase their size to about the bulk of good-sized walnuts, and at the same time plans are being taken at the Royal gun factories to construct guns of sixty tons, with the prospect of going on very shortly to seventy-five tons. We glean some interesting facts upon this subject from a writer in the London Standard, who says:

"Unless we make our guns of extravagant length it may be expected that some of the powder will always be blown out. Probably there is no gun, of whatever size, which does not do this more or less. But when we come to use very large guns, and charge them with powder of extreme coarseness, the effect is presented in so magnificent a form that it creates an impression as if unburnt powder blown out of a gun were altogether a novelty. It has been found that the rifle large grain powder, which answered well enough for guns of comparatively small calibre, is by no means suited to the heavier style of ordnance. As a general rule it may be said that the bigger the gun the bigger should be the grains of powder. A 700-pound shot is not to be sent off upon its errand as unceremoniously as if it were a mere ball of some sixty-eight pounds' weight. The simple kick of a sharp explosion will not suffice. There must be a preliminary push and the kick must come afterward. It was for this reason that Sir Joseph Whitworth proposed to have a small cartridge inside the large one. The small cartridge was to be ignited first, and was to act as the "starter." This was to be followed—after that fleet instant of time which means much in these operations—by the rush of the big explosion. Lord Elcho suggested that the scoring of the decks of the Devastation was occasioned by the studs which were shorn off from the projectiles. But the information supplied to Sir H. Storks is to the effect that the pebble powder alone is accountable for the marks on the deck of the ship and elsewhere. Supposing the studs to be shorn off or otherwise damaged, the fact is of no great consequence, providing the flight of the projectiles is not injuriously affected thereby, or the gun itself damaged. So far as we can learn, there is no reason to apprehend either of these prejudicial results. We are not aware of any foundation for the rumor that it required the labor of eight men to ram the shot home after a certain number of rounds has been fired. Responsible officers state that the guns were loaded from first to last with the greatest facility. We are also at a loss to understand how it was possible for some of the projectiles to turn over in their flight, and yet to preserve a tolerably accurate trajectory.—Damage to the studs does not involve damage to the guns, but rather the contrary, the softest metal naturally showing the results of friction. The studs are of gun metal, and the interior of the gun is of steel, so that we can have little doubt as to which is the most likely to suffer. With regard to the accuracy of flight, this is pretty well demonstrated by the precision with which the two projectiles fired from twin guns preserve their parallelism.—During the first hundred yards, or less, of their flight, there is a slight vibration in the projectiles, but this tremor is not perceptible at a quarter of a mile. To this peculiarity is due the fact, at first very puzzling, that our guns have a greater penetrating power at 400 yards than at seventy. At the shorter range the slight degree of "wobbling" demands a greater area for the passage of the shot thro' the shield. An extra inch in the diameter of the perforation involves a certain amount of extra work, and this extra energy is saved when the shot is steady."

General di Cesnola's Excavations at Cyprus.

The following is an extract from a letter written by General di Cesnola, from Salamis, in Cyprus, under date of February 17th last, to one of the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The General, as is well known, returned to Cyprus last autumn, and since then has been exploring and excavating there in hope that the Museum would soon be able to furnish him with funds for operating on a large scale. His letter is especially interesting now that the effort is making to raise a sufficient sum to pay for his collection, which is exhibited at the Museum, in Fourteenth street. Until the collection is paid for the trustees of the Museum cannot, of course, undertake any further explorations, or even purchase the objects mentioned in the letter.—Some of the photographs sent by the General can be seen at the Museum. The sarcophagus to which he refers is a very fine piece of workmanship, and worthy of a place of honor in any of the best European museums.

"I gave up for this year the idea of digging at Paphos, because the expenses there would be much heavier than at this place. You will see several views of the Sarcophagus from Golgos, which will become famous when published. The French Revue Archæologique is going to publish it soon, and the Louvre Museum is very anxious to purchase it; yet it must go to New York and not elsewhere. I have but eighty workmen here with me at present, and do not intend to increase their number until I am lucky enough to strike the ruins of one of its three temples. It is more than probable that this spot may yield some objects of art of the best Greek epoch, as at the time of King Evagoras I. this city was the capitol of the whole island, and the coins of this king are of the purest Greek art. I have found two little terracotta Phoenician boats, one of which has the shape of our modern ironclads. They are very interesting and unique. I purchased a nice collection of gold ornaments, found during my absence in America, thinking perhaps our Museum would have liked them in order to increase the one they have. I purchase continually whatever gold and glass is discovered, but if the Museum does not care to have them, please let me know it, and I will sell them in London to a person who wants them. I wish I could know if the Museum desires me to keep all that I discover now and hereafter. If the trustees believe that by and by they will be able to purchase the objects I am daily finding, I am quite willing to wait any time they want, and am ready to send to New York the things already found, when there will be some opportunity, in order that they may see them, and the executive committee will fix a price upon them to be paid to me when the Museum is in better condition as to funds."

OPINIONS OF
DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS.
"No. 17 Arlington St., London, England.
Jan. 6, 1870.
"I thank you for the opportunity of expressing my opinion of the great value of the 'NEW AMERICAN' and 'ANNUAL CYCLOPÆDIA.' I own the work and have it with me here, and am in the habit of consulting it every day to my very great advantage. It is most admirable. J. L. MOTLEY,
"U. S. Minister to the Court of St. James."
"Philadelphia, Nov. 1, 1869.
I consider the New American Cyclopaedia, published by D. Appleton & Co., vastly superior for the American reader to any other Cyclopaedia now before the public. REV. BISHOP SIMPSON."
"Boston, Oct. 25, 1869.
I own Appletons' Cyclopaedia, and use it constantly. It should be in every library, public and private—I would say in every house, within reach of every family. The young should use it.
CHARLES SUMNER."
"I use the 'New American Cyclopaedia' every day, generally many times a day. I think it the best work of the kind in existence. It is singularly well suited to families. The children who grow up in a house where there is a copy of it within reach, can hardly escape becoming well-informed persons. I value it very highly, and am glad of this opportunity of testifying my gratitude.
JAMES PARTON."
"Tribune Office, N. Y. City, Oct. 30, 1869.
MY DEAR SIR: I have used the 'New American Cyclopaedia' since the first volume came into existence, and deem it the best work of the kind in print. Yours, &c., HORACE GREELEY."
"North Shore, S. I., N. Y., Oct. 19, 1869.
Appletons' Cyclopaedia is unquestionably the best popular manual of general reference for an American. GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS."
"Washington, Nov. 12, 1869.
DEAR SIR: I quite agree with Mr. Curtis, that the 'New American Cyclopaedia' is 'the best manual of general reference for an American.' The annual continuations are also of great value.

WHEREAS, DEFAULT HAS been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 1st day of April, 1870, executed by John D. Deyo, widower, of the Town of Shawangunk, in the County of Ulster and State of New York, to Jane Smith, then the wife of Gardinier Smith, of the Town of Hurley, in the County and State aforesaid, to secure the payment of thirty-seven hundred dollars with interest thereon from the date thereof on the first day of April, 1872, and which mortgage was recorded in the Clerk's office of said County of Ulster in Book No. 110 of mortgages, on page 285, &c., on the 21st day of March, 1872, at 2½ o'clock P. M.

And whereas the said Jane Smith died intestate on the 11th day of January, 1874, leaving Cornelius C. Smith, John F. Smith, Richard C. Smith, Mary Dennis and Jeannette Van Wagenen, all above twenty-one years of age, as her only children and heirs-at-law, her surviving.

And whereas the said Cornelius C. Smith, John F. Smith, Richard C. Smith, Mary Dennis and Jeannette Van Wagenen, duly assigned and transferred all their right, title and interest in and to the said mortgage, and the bond accompanying the same, to their father, Gardinier Smith, by assignment dated the 31st day of January, 1874, duly recorded in the said Ulster County Clerk's office.

And whereas the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice is the sum of three thousand nine hundred and ninety-one dollars and sixteen cents, to-wit: $3,700 of principal and $291.16 of interest, and which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained and duly recorded as aforesaid and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at Public Auction at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Kingston, in the County of Ulster and State of New York, on the 20th day of May, 1874, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day. The premises are described in the mortgage as follows: All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land situate in the Town of Shawangunk aforesaid, and is known and distinguished as being the same farm now owned and occupied by John D. Deyo, and is described in three lots or parcels of land as follows, namely: Beginning with the lot the said John D. Deyo purchased from Willet Leuderman and his wife Sarah, and at a corner on the west side of the highway leading to Kingston, then as the needle pointed in 1820 north fifty degrees twenty minutes, west twenty-eight chains fourteen links to a corner of a lot of land sold to Joseph Eckert, then along the same south forty-two and three-quarter degrees west four chains seventy-one links, then north forty-five degrees forty-five minutes west seven chains to the center of a highway leading to Rutsonville; the two last courses are as the needle now points; then as it pointed in 1820 south twenty-nine degrees and forty-five minutes west seven chains and fifty links to a lot bought by Samuel Aldrich and others, then south fifty degrees twenty minutes east twenty-nine chains thirty links to a stone set by the westerly side of the aforesaid highway, then along the same to the beginning, containing thirty-six acres of land.

Also all that other lot purchased from Samuel Aldrich and others, and bounded as follows, namely: North by the above described lot, east by the public highway, south by lands of Peter Van Aken, west by the lands of Abram Vernooy, containing forty acres of land more or less.

Also all that other lot of land which is known as the same farm formerly owned by Jonathan Terwilliger, and is bounded as follows, namely: Beginning at a corner of land belonging to the heirs of William Rosekrans, from thence south seventy-five degrees and thirty minutes west two chains sixteen links to the line of the first described lot, then along the same north forty-seven degrees west ten chains thirty-one links, then north forty degrees and forty-five minutes east four chains and seventy-four links, then south thirty-two degrees forty-five minutes east eleven chains ninety-four links to the beginning, containing three acres and eight-tenths of an acre of land.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the fourth day of May, 1854, executed by Cornelius H. Eiting and Catherine Ann, his wife, of the town of Westfield, Richmond County, New York, to secure the payment of fifteen hundred dollars with interest thereon from the date thereof on the fourth day of May, 1855, and which mortgage was recorded in the Clerk's Office of the County of Ulster in Book No. 48 of Mortgages, on page 326 &c., June 22, 1854, at 9 o'clock A. M.

And whereas the said Cornelius Oliver duly assigned and transferred said mortgage and the bond accompanying the same to Jane Smith, wife of Gardinier Smith of the town of Hurley, Ulster County, New York, by assignment dated April 27, 1867, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book No. 89 of Mortgages, on page 532, &c., May 30, 1868, at 10½ o'clock A. M.

And whereas the said Jane Smith died intestate and without debts on the 11th day of January, 1874 leaving Cornelius C. Smith, John F. Smith, Richard C. Smith, Mary Dennis, and Jeannette Van Wagenen, all above twenty-one years of age, as her only children and heirs at law.

And whereas, the said Cornelius C. Smith, John F. Smith, Richard C. Smith, Mary Dennis and Jeannette Van Wagenen duly assigned and transferred all their right, title and interest in and to said bond and mortgage to their father, Gardinier Smith, by assignment dated January 31, 1874, and duly recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office, in book 186 of deeds, on page 59, &c., February 20, 1874.

And whereas the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice is the sum of fifteen hundred and ninety one dollars, and eighty-two cents, to wit: $1,500 of principal and $91.82 of interest, and which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained, and duly recorded as aforesaid: and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Kingston, in the county of Ulster, and state of New York, on the 12th day of June, 1874, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day.

The premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that certain farm lying in the town of Marbletown, in the county of Ulster, and state of New York, and is bounded as follows, viz: Bounded on the north by lands of the heirs of John P. Brink and Gardinier Smith, on the east by lands of Abraham Diets and southwestern turnpike, on the south by lands of Jacob VanCuren, Edward O'Neil, Cornelius M. VanBuren, John Dewitt and Henry T. Jansen, and on the west by Mountain Road, containing about three hundred and thirty-four acres, be the same more or less, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in anywise appertaining and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, issues and profit thereof.

Dated March 19th, 1874.

Would not be Without
VEGETINE!
FOR TEN TIMES ITS COST.

The great benefit I received from the use of VEGETINE induces me to give my testimony in its favor. I believe it to be not only of great value for restoring the health, but a preventive of diseases peculiar to the spring and summer seasons.
I would not be without it for ten times its cost.
EDWIN TILDEN,
Attorney, and General Agent for Massachusetts of the Craftsmen's Life Assurance Company, No. 49 Sears Building, Boston, Mass.

VEGETINE
Purifies the Blood and Restores the Health.
WHAT IS VEGETINE?

It is a compound extracted from barks, roots and herbs. It is Nature's Remedy. It is perfectly harmless from any bad effect upon the system. It is nourishing and strengthening. It acts directly upon the blood. It quiets the nervous system. It gives you good, sweet sleep at night. It is a great panacea for our aged fathers and mothers, for it gives them strength, quiets their nerves, and gives them Nature's sweet sleep, as has been proved by many an aged person. It is a great Blood Purifier. It is a soothing remedy for our children. It has relieved and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it.

Marvelous Effect.

MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I have used the great Blood Remedy, Vegetine, and feel it a duty to acknowledge the great benefit it has done me. In the Spring of the year 1862, I was sick from general debility caused by overwork, want of sleep and proper rest. I was very weak and much emaciated. I tried many remedies without receiving any benefit from any of them, until I was persuaded to try Vegetine. Before I had taken this one week, my improved condition gave me renewed hope and courage. I continued to take it every day, gaining more strength, until I was completely restored to health. The effect of this remedy, in case of general debility, is indeed marvellous.

CHALESTOWN, June 11, 1861.
MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—This is to certify that Vegetine made a perfect cure of me when my attending physician has pronounced my case consumption, and said I could not survive many days.

Pebble Powder.

The persistent efforts that are being made to increase the power of artillery has given rise to some strage results, among which is the necessity for what is to be known henceforth as pebble powder. The guns on the British iron-clad Devastation are of thirty-five tons—the largest afloat. They carry a projectile weighing 700 pounds; but it has been found that every time they are fired they score the iron decks of the ship. This at first could not be accounted for, but it is now found to be caused by the grains of powder that have not had time to be consumed within the guns.—To remedy this, the guns are to be lengthened: for to move so heavy a weight as the shot they throw, a slow-burning powder is essential. To accomplish this the grains of the powder hitherto used have been about the size of ordinary marbles. It is now proposed to increase their size to about the bulk of good-sized walnuts, and at the same time plans are being taken at the Royal gun factories to construct guns of sixty tons, with the prospect of going on very shortly to seventy-five tons. We glean some interesting facts upon this subject from a writer in the London Standard, who says:

"Unless we make our guns of extravagant length it may be expected that some of the powder will always be blown out. Probably there is no gun, of whatever size, which does not do this more or less. But when we come to use very large guns, and charge them with powder of extreme coarseness, the effect is presented in so magnificent a form that it creates an impression as if unburnt powder blown out of a gun were altogether a novelty. It has been found that the rifle large grain powder, which answered well enough for guns of comparatively small calibre, is by no means suited to the heavier style of ordnance. As a general rule it may be said that the bigger the gun the bigger should be the grains of powder. A 700-pound shot is not to be sent off upon its errand as unceremoniously as if it were a mere ball of some sixty-eight pounds' weight. The simple kick of a sharp explosion will not suffice. There must be a preliminary push and the kick must come afterward. It was for this reason that Sir Joseph Whitworth proposed to have a small cartridge inside the large one. The small cartridge was to be ignited first, and was to act as the "starter." This was to be followed—after that fleet instant of time which means much in these operations—by the rush of the big explosion. Lord Elcho suggested that the scoring of the decks of the Devastation was occasioned by the studs which were shorn off from the projectiles. But the information supplied to Sir H. Storks is to the effect that the pebble powder alone is accountable for the marks on the deck of the ship and elsewhere. Supposing the studs to be shorn off or otherwise damaged, the fact is of no great consequence, providing the flight of the projectiles is not injuriously affected thereby, or the gun itself damaged. So far as we can learn, there is no reason to apprehend either of these prejudicial results. We are not aware of any foundation for the rumor that it required the labor of eight men to ram the shot home after a certain number of rounds has been fired. Responsible officers state that the guns were loaded from first to last with the greatest facility. We are also at a loss to understand how it was possible for some of the projectiles to turn over in their flight, and yet to preserve a tolerably accurate trajectory.—Damage to the studs does not involve damage to the guns, but rather the contrary, the softest metal naturally showing the results of friction. The studs are of gun metal, and the interior of the gun is of steel, so that we can have little doubt as to which is the most likely to suffer. With regard to the accuracy of flight, this is pretty well demonstrated by the precision with which the two projectiles fired from twin guns preserve their parallelism.—During the first hundred yards, or less, of their flight, there is a slight vibration in the projectiles, but this tremor is not perceptible at a quarter of a mile. To this peculiarity is due the fact, at first very puzzling, that our guns have a greater penetrating power at 400 yards than at seventy. At the shorter range the slight degree of "wobbling" demands a greater area for the passage of the shot thro' the shield. An extra inch in the diameter of the perforation involves a certain amount of extra work, and this extra energy is saved when the shot is steady."

General di Cesnola's Excavations at Cyprus.

The following is an extract from a letter written by General di Cesnola, from Salamis, in Cyprus, under date of February 17th last, to one of the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The General, as is well known, returned to Cyprus last autumn, and since then has been exploring and excavating there in hope that the Museum would soon be able to furnish him with funds for operating on a large scale. His letter is especially interesting now that the effort is making to raise a sufficient sum to pay for his collection, which is exhibited at the Museum, in Fourteenth street. Until the collection is paid for the trustees of the Museum cannot, of course, undertake any further explorations, or even purchase the objects mentioned in the letter.—Some of the photographs sent by the General can be seen at the Museum. The sarcophagus to which he refers is a very fine piece of workmanship, and worthy of a place of honor in any of the best European museums.

"I gave up for this year the idea of digging at Paphos, because the expenses there would be much heavier than at this place. You will see several views of the Sarcophagus from Golgos, which will become famous when published. The French Revue Archæologique is going to publish it soon, and the Louvre Museum is very anxious to purchase it; yet it must go to New York and not elsewhere. I have but eighty workmen here with me at present, and do not intend to increase their number until I am lucky enough to strike the ruins of one of its three temples. It is more than probable that this spot may yield some objects of art of the best Greek epoch, as at the time of King Evagoras I. this city was the capitol of the whole island, and the coins of this king are of the purest Greek art. I have found two little terracotta Phoenician boats, one of which has the shape of our modern ironclads. They are very interesting and unique. I purchased a nice collection of gold ornaments, found during my absence in America, thinking perhaps our Museum would have liked them in order to increase the one they have. I purchase continually whatever gold and glass is discovered, but if the Museum does not care to have them, please let me know it, and I will sell them in Lonpon to a person who wants them. I wish I could know if the Museum desires me to keep all that I discover now and hereafter. If the trustees believe that by and by they will be able to purchase the objects I am daily finding, I am quite willing to wait any time they want, and am ready to send to New York the things already found, when there will be some opportunity, in order that they may see them, and the executive committee will fix a price upon them to be paid to me when the Museum is in better condition as to funds."

OPINIONS OF
DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS.
"No. 17 Arlington St., London, England. Jan. 6. 1870.
"I thank you for the opportunity of expressing my opinion of the great value of the 'NEW AMERICAN' and 'ANNUAL CYCLOPÆDIA.' I own the work and have it with me here, and am in the habit of consulting it every day to my very great advantage. It is most admirable. J. L. MOTLEY,
"U. S. Minister to the Court of St. James."
"Philadelphia, Nov. 1, 1869.
I consider the New American Cyclopaedia, published by D. Appleton & Co., vastly superior for the American reader to any other Cyclopaedia now before the public. REV. BISHOP SIMPSON."
"Boston, Oct. 25, 1869.
I own Appletons' Cyclopaedia, and use it constantly. It should be in every library, public and private—I would say in every house, within reach of every family. The young should use it.
CHARLES SUMNER."
"I use the 'New American Cyclopaedia' every day, generally many times a day. I think it the best work of the kind in existence. It is singularly well suited to families. The children who grow up in a house where there is a copy of it within reach, can hardly escape becoming well-informed persons. I value it very highly, and am glad of this opportunity of testifying my gratitude.
JAMES PARTON."
"Tribune Office, N. Y. City, Oct. 30, 1869.
MY DEAR SIR: I have used the 'New American Cyclopaedia' since the first volume came into existence, and deem it the best work of the kind in print. Yours, &c., HORACE GREELEY."

WHEREAS, DEFAULT HAS been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 1st day of April, 1870, executed by John D. Deyo, widower, of the Town of Shawangunk, in the County of Ulster and State of New York, to Jane Smith, then the wife of Gardinier Smith, of the Town of Hurley, in the County and State aforesaid, to secure the payment of thirty-seven hundred dollars with interest thereon from the date thereof on the first day of April, 1872, and which mortgage was recorded in the Clerk's office of said County of Ulster in Book No. 110 of mortgages, on page 285, &c., on the 21st day of March, 1872, at 2½ o'clock P. M.

And whereas the said Jane Smith died intestate on the 11th day of January, 1874, leaving Cornelius C. Smith, John F. Smith, Richard C. Smith, Mary Dennis and Jeannette Van Wagenen, all above twenty-one years of age, as her only children and heirs-at-law, her surviving.

And whereas the said Cornelius C. Smith, John F. Smith, Richard C. Smith, Mary Dennis and Jeannette Van Wagenen, duly assigned and transferred all their right, title and interest in and to the said mortgage, and the bond accompanying the same, to their father, Gardinier Smith, by assignment dated the 31st day of January, 1874, duly recorded in the said Ulster County Clerk's office.

And whereas the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice is the sum of three thousand nine hundred and ninety-one dollars and sixteen cents, to-wit: $3,700 of principal and $291.16 of interest, and which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained and duly recorded as aforesaid and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at Public Auction at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Kingston, in the County of Ulster and State of New York, on the 20th day of May, 1874, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day. The premises are described in the mortgage as follows: All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land situate in the Town of Shawangunk aforesaid, and is known and distinguished as being the same farm now owned and occupied by John D. Deyo, and is described in three lots or parcels of land as follows, namely: Beginning with the lot the said John D. Deyo purchased from Willet Leuderman and his wife Sarah, and at a corner on the west side of the highway leading to Kingston, then as the needle pointed in 1820 north fifty degrees twenty minutes, west twenty-eight chains fourteen links to a corner of a lot of land sold to Joseph Eckert, then along the same south forty-two and three-quarter degrees west four chains seventy-one links, then north forty-five degrees forty-five minutes west seven chains to the center of a highway leading to Rutsonville; the two last courses are as the needle now points; then as it pointed in 1820 south twenty-nine degrees and forty-five minutes west seven chains and fifty links to a lot bought by Samuel Aldrich and others, then south fifty degrees twenty minutes east twenty-nine chains thirty links to a stone set by the westerly side of the aforesaid highway, then along the same to the beginning, containing thirty-six acres of land.

Also all that other lot purchased from Samuel Aldrich and others, and bounded as follows, namely: North by the above described lot, east by the public highway, south by lands of Peter Van Aken, west by the lands of Abram Vernooy, containing forty acres of land more or less.

Also all that other lot of land which is known as the same farm formerly owned by Jonathan Terwilliger, and is bounded as follows, namely: Beginning at a corner of land belonging to the heirs of William Rosekrans, from thence south seventy-five degrees and thirty minutes west two chains sixteen links to the line of the first described lot, then along the same north forty-seven degrees west ten chains thirty-one links, then north forty degrees and forty-five minutes east four chains and seventy-four links, then south thirty-two degrees forty-five minutes east eleven chains ninety-four links to the beginning, containing three acres and eight-tenths of an acre of land.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the fourth day of May, 1854, executed by Cornelius H. Elting and Catherine Ann, his wife, of the town of Westfield, Richmond County, New York, to secure the payment of fifteen hundred dollars with interest thereon from the date thereof on the fourth day of May, 1855, and which mortgage was recorded in the Clerk's Office of the County of Ulster in Book No. 48 of Mortgages, on page 326 &c., June 22, 1854, at 9 o'clock A. M.

And whereas the said Cornelius Oliver duly assigned and transferred said mortgage and the bond accompanying the same to Jane Smith, wife of Gardiner Smith of the town of Hurley, Ulster County, New York, by assignment dated April 27, 1867, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book No. 89 of Mortgages, on page 532, &c., May 30, 1868, at 10½ o'clock A. M.

And whereas the said Jane Smith died intestate and without debts on the 11th day of January, 1874 leaving Cornelius C. Smith, John F. Smith, Richard C. Smith, Mary Dennis, and Jeannette Van Wagenen, all above twenty-one years of age, as her only children and heirs at law.

And whereas, the said Cornelius C. Smith, John F. Smith, Richard C. Smith, Mary Dennis and Jeannette Van Wagenen duly assigned and transferred all their right, title and interest in and to said bond and mortgage to their father, Gardiner Smith, by assignment dated January 31, 1874, and duly recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office, in book 186 of deeds, on page 59, &c., February 20, 1874.

And whereas the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice is the sum of fifteen hundred and ninety one dollars, and eighty-two cents, to wit: $1,500 of principal and $91.82 of interest, and which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained, and duly recorded as aforesaid; and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Kingston, in the county of Ulster, and state of New York, on the 12th day of June, 1874, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day.

The premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that certain farm lying in the town of Marbletown, in the county of Ulster, and state of New York, and is bounded as follows, viz: Bounded on the north by lands of the heirs of John P. Brink and Gardinier Smith, on the east by lands of Abraham Diets and southwestern turnpike, on the south by lands of Jacob VanCuren, Edward O'Neil, Cornelius M. VanBuren, John Dewitt and Henry T. Jansen, and on the west by Mountain Road, containing about three hundred and thirty-four acres, be the same more or less, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in anywise appertaining and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, issues and profit thereof.

Kingston, Saturday Morning, May 2.

Beebe again; just for one minute. Beebe deplored the passage of the police bill because it would, in his judgment, place the political power of New York in the hands of one party. We should simply like to ask him how his friends in that city would probably view the situation in case no changes are made in the heads of departments this year, as it is likely there will not be, and a Democratic Mayor should be elected for the following term? Would it or wouldn't it make a difference?

Those Little Rock contestants have got to drawing blood and the farce is putting on a tragical aspect. Now is the time to stop this piece of partisan foolishness. The President is doubtless bored to death with it already, but we hope he will speedily kick the four lawyers from Arkansas out of the White House and come to a decision without other aid than that of the District-Attorney and a gracious providence. The lives of the rabble following either "Governor" are not probably of much consequence to the world, yet modern humanity, not to say anything of our national reputation, demands the suppression even of dog fights.

Our friends of the World are frequently dropping into Latin; with them the language is not dead but sleeping. Yesterday, which was a moving day, moved the World to moralize on moving as it moved along in its elliptical orbit. One thing it said impressed us more than it is our habit to be impressed with anything in a newspaper. The sentiment of it is truer than a majority of Poor Richard's once popular aphorisms and cross-cut saws, and much more comprehensive of the chief fault and pervading weakness of the American people. But we ought to quote and will quote the World's sad, tear-compelling Latin: "Domum non animum mutant." That's the worst of it.

The New York Board of Supervisors are talking real naughty. A little difference occurred the other day about the payment of Mr. Jocks' bill for carpenter work done on one of the armories. The bill of Jocks was a manifest swindle after the style and likeness of Garvey's bills of old. Well, Supervisor Van-Schaick objected to auditing the account; whereupon Supervisor Kehr got mad and offered to horsewhip Van Schaick on the spot. The latter gentlemen declined with thanks, and Kehr—who is a little man but not afraid—fairly roared and howled with a desire to hit somebody. At this point, Jocks, being a joiner, joined in to help the little Kehr and volunteered the opinion that Van Schaick was "a loafer," "a swindler," "a skunk," and a "son of a gun." Hearing this, Van Schaick followed the fashion of his insulted father and went off. As they parted each of these officials accused the other of having been "in jail in Ulster county." How they have fallen since; alas!

The Hanging of Waltz.

Catskill has, we trust, returned to its accustomed quiet, and we hope has acquired a sense of shame that might have saved it much of the good opinion of the outside world if it had been manifested on Thursday. This man Waltz was a hideous murderer, but the very way he killed his victims with his selection of them demonstrated him a monomaniac on the subject of murder. There can be no doubt that he would have murdered five hundred people, one after another, if he had had an opportunity, and would have done it with as little sense of crime as afflicts a Texas cattle drover when he slashes his beeves in a pen, but unlike him with no motive whatever. So far as has appeared there was nothing to be gained by any murder he committed, and from the robbing of school-houses of books simply to destroy them, to the murder of the scissors-grinder, perhaps an organ-grinder, and at last his keeper, there doesn't appear a single motive except in the last, in which he might have expected to have gained his escape.—From first to last the creature showed evidence of monomania, and at last died like an animal. Two experts pronounced him sane, while three said he was clearly insane. This conflict of medical opinion was sufficient to have warranted delay for the satisfactory determination of his mental condition by a council of experts.

But a jury decided him sane and thus guilty of murder, for there can be no murder that is not born of intent, and no maniac is enough master of himself to form an intent. The law was enforced, and whatever has been gained in respect for it by the official hanging of Waltz it has. But not by consent of the people of Catskill, in whose name Rufus H. King sent word to Gov. Dix that a reprieve meant Waltz's death by lynch law. And Catskill on Thursday presented the strange sight of a gnashing, growling, cursing maniac in a cell, surrounded with a raving crowd of citizens howling for his blood. Whether the spirit of murder was in the mind of Waltz or not, whether he killed men as laborers pile stones on top of each other or with some idea of the iniquity of the act, certainly those men who represented Catskill knew it would be murder for them to kill Waltz, yet they openly clamored for his blood. They were murderers at heart, every one of them.

"Silence for Five Years."

It was held as an irrefutable point by an ultra-Pauline woman-hating old bachelor preacher that there were no woman in the New Jerusalem. On an ingnignant demand being made by a female evangelist for his reasons for the opinion, he quoted from St. John's account of his vision, "And there was silence in heaven for the space of half an hour." No exception was taken to this strong circumstantial evidence and a triumphant, hopeful smile stole across the weather-beaten face of the worn itinerant as he looked upward towards the sky. We are rather glad than otherwise that our affectionate and domestic constitution prohibits our sharing to the full the cynical minister's exaltation of mind at what may be a fact and which he manifestly relied on with all his soul. May he not have exaggerated, or perverted the true influence to be drawn from the revelator's mention of that quiet interval separating the celestial noises? Would it not be a degree kinder and also maybe a shade juster, to suppose there are women in heaven, but owing to some tremendous feeling of astonishment (inconceivable by us in this life so filled with stale sensations) they were actually made voiceless for the brief space indicated? Being, as we had the honor to remark, of a charitable and loving disposition ourselves, we incline to this explanatory hypothesis. Even admitting it, we are still made captive by a very disagreeable deduction; and that is, the simple fact of the presence of so strange a minute in the Apocalyptic record involves the supposition that John himself was surprised that stillness was maintained so long. Now proceed we with inexpressible reluctance to forge a link or two in a logical chain. If in heaven, where no untoward event ever breaks the peace, and where no speeches or formal opinions are wanted on any subject, or, what is more to the purpose, when there is no provocation whatever to rouse a woman's temper, it is rare to find a half-hour free from the clatter of tongues (women's tongues, of course!), how, in the name of wonder, how can Rev. E. E. Hale expect the Vassar girls to take the advice which he quotes at them from Pythagoras, to the effect that "young people should keep silence for five years!" There! who will affirm now that Mr. Hale hadn't better keep silence himself than waste words in telling the girls to do it? Good gracious! what does the man suppose would become of those young ladies before that semi-decade was up; how could they court or be courted, play croquet, teach an infant class, go 'round crusading or resist the encroachments of tyrannical husbands? We won't say that Mr. Hale is a fool, for he is living and might resent it; but Pythagoras is dead, and so we'll take the chances of styling him an old pudding-head.

A Dinner and Some Good Toast.

There is an element of real satisfaction in hearing that so much of the American public as feels able to give honorary dinners is beginning to put its money and its viands to an improved use. We have dined and wined authors, poets, orators and politicians to the exclusion of many obscurer but more useful men nearly long enough. If there happens to be anything connected with a first-class gorge got up by Delmonico and paid for by a number of wealthy gentlemen which is in its nature complimentary to the recipient of it, then surely the workers among us are entitled to it no less than the talkers and writers. On this theory we are glad of the dinner given in honor of John Roach, the architect of the steamship City of Pekin and the first of American shipbuilders. Not merely for the sake of what Mr. Roach has done to make himself famous are we pleased to note the public recognition given him, but for the better reason that a new era may thereby be indicated in American shipbuilding. Just before the breaking out of the war the tonnage of vessels engaged in the carrying trade between the Union and foreign ports was as to the tonnage of all other vessels employed in the same way, about as two and one-half to one. In other words, we had more than twice all other tonnage doing the same work. Now the case is precisely the reverse. Some of the causes for the lapse of most of our exports and imports into other bottoms are these: First, the taking away of so many ships from our merchant marine to serve the urgent uses of sudden war; second, the distrust which lead merchants to ship goods in foreign vessels for safety; third, the selling of our ships to citizens of nations then at peace for lack of safety under our flag; fourth, the actual destruction of hundreds of ships by rebel cruisers. Since the end of the war our shipping interests have never recovered; our fluctuating financial policies, the want of thorough and sensible legislation, the cheapness of English and Scotch labor and the poor material foreign artizans threw into attractive forms, having much to do in keeping our shipyards deserted and our workmen idle. The feeling that to allow the continuance of this state of things is as unwise as it is needless was the mainspring of the Roach dinner. Let us reiterate what we have before said in these columns: that the present condition of the American shipbuilding industry is a burning, branding disgrace to this nation; no matter how it happens or whose especial fault it is. We should be and must be the leading maritime people of the world; and if the next ten years fails to place us on the high road to it, we shall deserve the sardonic laugh of the coffin builders of the Clyde.

—We have a report from the west we are glad to credit. Senator Schurz will, it is said, rest his re-election upon his fitness and ability and not seek to make combinations for that end. If Missouri threw over the ablest orator in America she can safely be ashamed of herself.

—Somebody has been petitioning the New York Board of Education to have the Irish language taught in the public schools. One reason is unique, because possibly that language was used in building the pyramids. Nobody appears to want to build any pyramids in New York.

—Pennsylvania feels sure she is to have a seat in the Cabinet. What is needed is not the satisfaction of claims for representation, but the appointment of a Secretary of the Treasury in whom the people have confidence and who has the ability to manage the finances.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—The lighting struck Butler's house, in Lowell, a few days ago, but not finding the General at home, left in a hurry.

—There is much excitement in Wisconsin over the new railroad law, which has aroused the determined opposition of the railroads, and has not yet been enforced.

—The new system of corporation taxation in Pennsylvania, includes a tax of three cents per ton on coal and a tax on the dividends of companies.

—President Grant is reported as receiving commendatory letters from the south and southwest in large quantities, for his recent veto.

—The government will send 500,000 rations of meat, flour, beans and rice, to the sufferers by the Mississippi overflow. This will feed only 20,000 persons for twenty-five days.

—Lord Spencer has done what is deemed a very liberal act in England. He has decided to rent an acre each to six of the laborers on his estate.

—Why, this man Grant don't know even how to do a sum in simple addition. He adds up 44 and 46 and cals it 100.—John Logan.

REGULAR DISPATCHES TO DAILY FREEMAN

FOREIGN.

SPAIN.

Bilbao to be Delivered.

MADRID, May 1.—The Carlists have abandoned their strong positions at San Pedro Abanto and San Juliana, which have been occupied by the republican forces. The occupation of Portugalete is expected to follow to-day, and with it the immediate deliverance of Bilbao.

MADRID, May 1.—Dispatches from Santorder announce that the Carlists this afternoon were retreating in confusion and it is reported that the government forces have already entered Bilbao.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Comments on Inflation.

LONDON, May 2.—The Post in an editorial on the subject of American finances remarks that the hopes of a complete victory in the next presidential election entertained by the inflationists, or, properly speaking, the repudiationists, are melancholy to contemplate. Should they be realized then the declaration of independence would be celebrated by a declaration of independence of common honesty. The most ominous feature is that the struggle is sharply defined by geographical limits and threatens to become sectional, like the anti-slavery contest.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

Reduction for April.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The public debt statement shows a reduction of $2,965,451 during the month of April.

BOLD ROBBERY.

A Smart Thief in Boston.

BOSTON, May 1.—At the Merchants' Bank to-day, while Alexander A. McLauren was counting a package of money, a man diverted his attention momentarily by dropping two $2 bills on the floor, then seized a roll of $1,000 in bills and escaped.

THE CREDIT MOBILIER SUITS.

An Appeal to the Supreme Court.

NEW HAVEN, May 1.—In the United States Circuit Court, before Judges Woodruff and Shipman, the Credit Mobilier suits came up this afternoon for final action. A decree sustaining the demurrers of all those who have demurred and the answers of certain defendants were entered and signed by the court. The complainants thereupon prayed an appeal from said decree to the Supreme Court of the United States, which was entered and allowed by the court. Thomas A. Jenickes of Providence and J. Hubley Ashton, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the United States and Charles E. Gross of Hartford for defendants.

THE HOMESTEAD BUTCHERY.

Great Excitement over the Horrible Affair.

PITTSBURG, May 1.—Great excitement prevails at Homestead over the horrible butchery which took place there yesterday. There seems to be no doubt but that Ernest Lowe, a hired man, a Prussian about twenty-five years of age, is the murderer. The relatives of the murdered family offered a reward of $1,000 and the County Commissioners an additional $1,000 for the capture of the murderers.

TWO MINERS KILLED.

Two men named Jonathan Williams and William Neysmith were killed by an explosion of fire-damp in the coal mines at Irwins, Pa., to-day. The accident was caused by doors being left open in the air passages and it is supposed that the gas took fire from a lamp.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Boutwell on the Sanborn Contracts.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Senator Boutwell appeared before the Ways and Means Committee to-day, and made a statement in relation to the Sanborn contracts. He said that for two months his health had been so delicate as to enable him to do but little work. He had not read the testimony taken by the committee thus far. It was true he had examined into the matter before making any contracts, but he did not believe any money would be recovered under them.

He had left all legal details of the contracts to Mr. Banfield, the Solicitor of the Department, but held himself responsible for the acts of subordinates; and if wrong had been done, it was an error of judgment.

Mr. Boutwell was not examined at length.

THE DISTRICT INVESTIGATION.

The District of Columbia Investigation Committee to-day examined the property clerk of the Board of Public Works with reference to the method of issuing and receiving material for improvement.

Lewis Clephane, Collector of the district, named in the charges of the memorialists as one of the conspirators to obtain and control contracts, denied all knowledge of conspiracy and denounced the charge as a malicious slander. He read a letter to show that Governor Shepherd severed his connection with the Portland Cement Company and Metropolitan Pavement Company upon being appointed a member of the Board of Public Works.

Pending the examination of the witness the committee held an executive session to examine A. B. Kirtland, who was secured night before last in the Gilsey House in New York and brought to this city in custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate last night.

Kirtland was examined in private session from 11:30 o'clock A. M. until three P. M. His story is substantially as follows: He admits that he received from Chittenden $72,000 in notes, but that he had at no time any arrangements or any negotiations with any member of the Board of Public Works; that after he received the notes he went to Colonel Moore, the business partner of Gov. Shepherd, and offered him one-half of them. Moore said he did not want notes, but if he [Kirtland] would get the notes discounted he might accept some of the money. Witness further testified that he got the notes discounted and applied the full proceeds to his own benefit and did not again offer Moore any share, nor did he receive any. He was cross-examined very closely, but the above is substantially all that could be elicited from him. Witness will be examined in public session to-morrow to afford counsel on both sides an opportunity to cross-examine him.

THE GENEVA AWARD.

The House Judiciary Committee to-day agreed to an important amendment to the Geneva award bill, to the effect that payment will be made to mutual insurance companies for all losses sustained by vessels for whose depredations we made a claim against Great Britain, provided no member of a mutual insurance company shall recover for any war premiums paid for such company for risks; in other words, they will be paid for all losses and cut off from the war premium. The amendment further provides that they shall distribute the money so paid them among their members who contributed to pay losses.

THE WEATHER.

To-Day's Probabilities.

For the Middle States light to fresh variable winds and partly cloudy weather with possibly light rain from New Jersey northwesward to the lower lake region.

THE SOUTHERN FLOOD.

Condition of the Mississippi.

MEMPHIS, May 1.—The following is a review of the situation along that portion of the Mississippi and its tributaries usually trading with Memphis: From Cairo to this point steamers cannot make landings on the west bank except at wharf boats; yet with the exception of at Osceola no serious damage to the planting interests has resulted. From the Louisiana line up there are no levees on the Arkansas side except local ones, and a large portion of the country is subject to inundation and is sparsely settled, as is the case opposite here, where the river spreads out to the high land near Madison, Arkansas, a distance of over forty miles. The St. Francis valley is generally a foot above the overflow and planters are waiting for dry weather to begin planting. The White River valley is inundated up to Indian Bay, but the damage is slight. Ten thousand dollars will probably cover the loss on stock, &c. The Arkansas valley is overflowed up to Arkansas Port; but, like others, the damage is light and $15,000 will probably cover it. From the mouth of the Arkansas down is where the greatest damage has resulted and where destitution undoubtedly exists among all classes, but particularly among laborers and their families. A large portion of the Tallahatchie and Yallabusha bottoms have been overflowed for some time, but at latest accounts the water was subsiding, but another crevasse was reported at Catfish Point, making the fourth in that vicinity, though as yet but few plantations have been injured. Sunflower River has thus far carried off the main body of water escaping through the Hishpuckano crevasse. Deer's Creek plantations have not suffered materially, but at Milliken's Bend, twenty-five miles above Vicksburg, is where the greatest damage has been done and where the greatest destitution and suffering prevails. Citizens here are making good progress in forwarding supplies to sufferers and have established depots from Napoleon to Vancluse Landing. They have heretofore sent relief to those above Napoleon. To-day they sent by the Capital City 10,000 pounds of bacon, 60 bales of hay, 100 sacks of corn, 75 barrels of flour and 100 barrels of meal. A lady from near Napoleon, whose husband was one of the wealthiest planters in that section, arrived here to-day and states that she left the family and plantation hands, numbering eighty, without food. All would have starved a few days since but for food furnished by the officers of the City of Vicksburg. The river is now stationary and within ten inches of the height of the flood of 1867.

ARKANSAS AFFAIRS.

Latest from Brooks.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The following was received to-day:

LITTLE ROCK, May 1.

To the President:—H. King White, who fired on the commander of the United States troops at Little Rock, has been ordered to Pine Bluff by Baxter and is pillaging and murdering. The state is perfectly peaceful except in Jefferson county, the scene of White's robberies and murders. I have refrained from sending out forces in order to avoid a conflict.

JOSEPH BROOKS,
Governor of Arkansas.

THE RECENT FIGHT.

MEMPHIS, May 1.—A private dispatch from Pine Bluff, Ark., confirms the report to the Associated Press last night with reference to the fight between the Baxter forces under General King White and the Brooks forces near Gascony. The dispatch states that E. Lee, son of Dr. Lee, and Pleasant Pendleton, a son of Dr. Pendleton, were slightly wounded. None were killed on White's side. On the other eleven negroes were killed and twenty wounded and twenty prisoners taken. General White holds all the white leaders as prisoners.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

LITTLE ROCK, May 1.—A Gazette special from Pine Bluff gives the following particulars of the fight near New Gascony on Thursday: Two hundred of Brooks' men, with Murphy and Van Desande as leaders, formed and threatened to come to Pine Bluff and take the Court House and burn every barn in the city. General King White went down with his white and colored mounted and foot men and after arriving within a short distance of the insurgents, who were at a gin house on the Ashley place, he sent forward three staff officers to order the insurgents to disband. When the latter saw the staff officers coming they immediately fired a volley upon them and orders from White were given to charge on the insurgents. They made a stand at Corn Stone Church and the fight began in earnest, but lasted only a short time. Six of White's command were wounded. Five of the insurgents were killed and twelve wounded, and Van Desande and sixty-three men captured. All but the two leaders were released on parole. Murphy and Van Desande are still in custody.

UNITED STATES CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 1.

The Senate disposed of a number of bills on the calendar, and after a brief executive session adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

Speeches on the general Indian question and of the policy to be pursued towards them were made by Hancock of Texas, Richmond of Pennsylvania, Knapp of Illinois, Wood of New York, Beck and Adams of Kentucky and Shanks of Indiana, after which the Clerk proceeded to read the bill by paragraphs for amendment.

The committee arose and the House at 4:45 P. M. took a recess till half-past seven, the evening session to be for the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill.

EVENING SESSION.

In the House evening session there was the usual lively debate over Indian matters and in regard to the war and peace policies as applied to the Indians.

Mr. MILLS of Texas offered an amendment and made a speech in favor of having the Kiowa chiefs, Satanta and Big Tree, who were convicted of murder in Texas a couple of years ago, delivered up again to the civil authorities of the state, but the proposition was not sanctioned by the House. At last, on some unimportant amendment, the minority insisted on having a quorum and as no quorum did vote the roll was called and it appeared there was only one hundred and twenty members present, being twenty-six less than a quorum. Then the absentees were called and only four more answered to their names. There was some inclination to go through the tedious and unprofitable process of sending the Sergant-at-Arms to bring in absentees, but more sensible counsels prevailed and the House agreed to adjourn at 10 o'clock.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Aquation is now agitated in England. It means burying the dead far out at sea. Funerals in ferry boats, and all that sort of thing, you know.

—It is stated a witness will be produced in the Kelsey case, who will prove that the legs found in Huntington bay were those of an unknown person, placed there by collusion with interested persons.

—Abel Shepard, of Huntington, Vt., sues the Montpelier Argus for $5,000 for libel in publishing his name in its black list of delinquent subscribers, when he can show a receipt for his subscription.

—In the silk of this season there is every shade of gray, strawberry, copper, olive, serge, cocoa, brown, drab, rose, lilac, lavender, blue and maize, with innumerable neutral tints.

—The preparations made by the United States for the observation of the transit of Venus are most ample, and were consummated years ago. Congress appropriated $150,000 and the aid of naval vessels. Eight parties are getting ready to go out.

—Major John H. Glass of Trenton, Tenn., went over to Dresden the other day, to pay $1,000 for a negro man that he bought seventeen years ago. He executed his note payable when the young man became of age, which event occurred a few days ago.

—Miss Anna Ingraham of Brooklyn is a very practical crusader. She visited fifty-two liquor saloons Sunday, the 19th inst., and bought twenty cents' worth of brandy in each. She now demands that their licenses be revoked.

—Rev. Robert Collyer of Chicago, who has been named by Dr. Patton as a witness in prosecuting Rev. David Swing for heresy, says it is the greatest insult he has received from any quarter since he went to Chicago to live. He refuses to aid in "mousing out heresy."

—The Lockport Journal says the editors around the state have already commenced saving up their money that they may attend the convention to be held in that city next June. This silences the calumnious charge that editors are in the habit of dead-beating it wherever they go.

—The late Aimee Deselee is now said to have owed her illness to the disastrous effects of a discovery that a young woman who lived with her as a companion had been systematically robbing her. She was strongly attached to this person, and the revelation of her perfidy and ingratitude was more than she could bear.

—Much of the most valuable land in Georgia was originally distributed by lottery, and many owners of real estate have abstracts of title going back to lottery tickets. The system is to be revived. The Legislature has authorized a scheme for the sale of lands by lottery, and an office is to be opened in Augusta. It is expected that the owners of large plantations will subscribe.

—A Pittsburg dispatch states that most of the oil producers have combined to suspend until the scarcity of petroleum compels an advance in price. Nearly all of the producers in St. Petersburg, Petrolia, Korus City and Millerstown have shut down. In Butler county one hundred and seven out of one hundred and thirty-one wells have shut down for three months.

—We have profound respect for those who labor conscientiously to save their fellow-men from the sad effects of an ungoverned appetite. But we have an unutterable contempt for those who make a trade of temperance while supporting drunkards for office—and we believe this contempt is shared by an overwhelming majority of the citizens of our state.—Utica Observer.

—Grant is now assured of his third term, and I have no doubt he will be continued in office for the next thirty or forty years, if he so desires. He has secured the support of the eighteen hundred national banks of this country, and, as the population of the country is a little over 40,000,000, what can such a handful of people expect to do against the combined money interest?—John A. Logan.

—A jail delivery in Hempstead county, Arkansas, was not as healthy for fugitives as the recent break out in Delaware. They threw a blanket over the jailor's head and pushed him into a cell, but he emptied his revolver. One prisoner, J. P. Smith, received three bullets, each probably fatal; another, William Puckett, was killed, and two negroes escaped with lesser injuries. This shows what a resolute jailor can do, even with a blanket over his head.

LAWS OF NEW YORK.—By Authority.

[Every law, unless a different time shall be prescribed therein, shall commence and take effect throughout the State, on and not before the twentieth day after the day of its final passage, as certified by the Secretary of State. Sec. 12, title 4, chap. 7, part 1, Revised Statutes.]

CHAP. 189.

AN ACT to provide security against extraordinary conflagrations, and for the creation of safety funds by fire insurance companies.

PASSED April 16, 1874; three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Hereafter it shall be lawful for any fire insurance company, organized under the laws of this State, to create the funds herein provided for, to be known and designated as the guarantee surplus fund and the special reserve fund, and to avail itself of the provisions of this act upon complying with the requirements thereof.

§ 2. Any fire insurance company desiring to create such funds shall be and it is hereby authorized to do so, upon the adoption of a resolution by its board of directors at a regular meeting thereof, and filing with the Superintendent of the Insurance Department a copy thereof, declaring the desire and intention of such company to create such funds and to do business under the provisions of this act; and as soon after the filing of such copy of the resolution as convenient, the Superintendent shall make a certificate of the result thereof, which shall particularly set forth the amount of surplus funds held by such company at the date of such examination, which, under the provisions of this act, are to and may be equally divided between and be set apart to constitute said guaranty surplus and special reserve funds, which certificate shall be recorded in the Insurance Department; and from and after the date of the recording of such certificate, all the policies and renewal of policies issued by such company shall have printed thereon, by such company, a note that the same are issued under and in pursuance of this act, referring to the same by its chapter, date and title; and such policies and renewals shall be deemed to have been issued and received subject to the provisions of this act.

§ 3. After the date mentioned in any such resolution so passed and filed, it shall not be lawful for such company to make, declare or pay, in any form, any dividend upon its capital stock, exceeding seven per centum per annum thereupon and upon the surplus funds to be formed hereunder, until after its guaranty surplus fund and its special reserve fund shall have together accumulated to an amount equal to its said capital stock, and the entire surplus profits of such company above such annual dividend of seven per cent shall be equally divided between and be set apart to constitute the said guaranty surplus fund and the said special reserve fund, which said funds shall be held and used as hereinafter provided and not otherwise; and any company doing business under this act, which shall declare or pay any divided contrary to the provisions herein contained, shall be liable to be proceeded against by the Attorney General for its dissolution.

§ 4. Said guaranty surplus fund shall be held and invested by such company the same as its capital stock and surplus accumulation; and shall be liable and applicable in the same manner as the capital stock to the payment generally of the losses of such company.

§ 5. Said special reserve fund shall be invested according to existing laws relating to investments of capital by fire insurance companies, and shall be deposited from time to time as the same shall accumulate and be invested with the Superintendent of the Insurance Department, who shall permit the company depositing the same to change such deposits by substituting for those withdrawn others of equal amount and value, and to collect and receive the interests or dividends upon such securities as the same may accrue; and such special reserve fund shall be deemed a fund contributed by the stockholders to protect such company and its policy-holders other than claimants for losses already existing or then incurred, in case of such extraordinary conflagration or conflagrations as hereinafter mentioned; and said fund shall not be regarded as any part or portion of the assets in possession of said company, so as to be or render the same liable for any claim or claims for losses, by fire or otherwise, except as herein provided.

§ 6. In estimating the profit of any such company, for the purpose of making a division thereof, between such guaranty surplus fund and such special reserve fund, there shall be deducted from the gross assets of the company, including for this purpose the amount of the special reserve fund, the sum of the following items: First, the amount of all outstanding claims; second, an amount sufficient to meet the liability of such company for the unearned premiums upon its unexpired policies, which amount shall be at least equal to one-half of the premiums received on policies having less than one year to run from date of policy, and a pro rata proportion of the premiums received on policies having more than one year to run from date of policy, and shall be known as the re-insurance liability; third, the amount of its guaranty surplus fund and of its special reserve fund; fourth, the amount of the capital of the company; and fifth, interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum upon the amount of capital and, of the said funds, for whatever time shall have elapsed since the last preceding cash dividend; and the balance shall constitute the net surplus of the company, subject to an equal division between the said funds, as herein provided.

§ 7. In the event of any extensive conflagration or conflagrations, whereby the claims upon such company shall exceed the amount of the capital stock, and of the guaranty surplus fund provided for by this act, the said company shall notify the said Superintendent of the fact, who shall then make or cause to be made an examination of said company, and shall issue his certificate of the result, showing the amounts of capital, of guaranty surplus fund, of special reserve fund, of re-insurance liability and of other assets; and upon his issuing such certificate in duplicate, one copy to be given the company and one to be recorded in the Insurance Department, the said special reserve fund shall be immediately held to protect all policy-holders of such company other than such as are claimants upon it at the time, or such as become such claimants in consequence of such conflagration or conflagrations, and the amount of said special reserve fund, and an amount equal to the unearned premiums of such company, to be ascertained as hereinbefore provided, shall constitute the capital and assets of such company for the protection of policy-holders other than such claimants, and for the further conduct of its business; and such official certificate of Superintendent shall be binding and conclusive upon all parties interested in such company, whether as stockholders, creditors, or policy-holders; and upon the payment to the claimants for losses or otherwise, existing at the time of, or caused by, such general conflagration or conflagrations, of the amount to which they are respectively entitled, in proportion to their several claims, of the full sum of the capital of such company and of its guaranty surplus fund, and of its assets, excepting only such special reserve fund and an amount of its assets equal to the liability of the company for unearned premiums, as so certified by such Superintendent, such company shall be forever discharged from any and all further liability to such claimants, and to each of them. And the said Superintendent shall, after issuing his said certificate, upon the demand of such company, transfer to it all such securities as shall have been deposited with him by such company as such special reserve fund; and if the amount of such special reserve fund be less than fifty per cent, of the full amount of the capital of the company, a requisition shall be issued by the said Superintendent upon the stockholders, to make up such capital to that proportion of its full amount, in the manner now provided by law, in the case of companies with impaired capitals; and, provided further, that any capital so impaired shall be made up to at least the sum of two hundred thousand dollars. And in case said company, after such requisition, shall fail to make up in its capital to at least said amount of two hundred thousand dollars, as therein directed, said special reserve fund shall still be held as security, and liable for any and all losses occurring upon policies of such company after such conflagration or conflagrations. Such company shall, in its annual statement to the Insurance Department of this State, set forth the amount of such special reserve fund, and of its guaranty surplus fund.

§ 8. If, at any time after such special reserve fund shall have been accumulated by any company, it shall appear, upon examination by the said Superintendent, that the capital of such company has, in the absence of any such extensive conflagration, become impaired so as to cause him to order a call upon the stockholders to make up such impairment, the board of directors of such company may either comply with such order and require the necessary payment by the stockholders, or at their option they may apply for that purpose so much of said special reserve fund as will make such impairment good. No company doing business under this act shall insure any larger amount upon any single risk than is permitted by law to a company possessing the same amount of capital, irrespective of the funds hereby provided for.

§ 9. This act shall take effect immediately.

Kingston, Saturday Morning, May 2.

Beebe again; just for one minute. Beebe deplored the passage of the police bill because it would, in his judgment, place the political power of New York in the hands of one party. We should simply like to ask him how his friends in that city would probably view the situation in case no changes are made in the heads of departments this year, as it is likely there will not be, and a Democratic Mayor should be elected for the following term? Would it or wouldn't it make a difference?

Those Little Rock contestants have got to drawing blood and the farce is putting on a tragical aspect. Now is the time to stop this piece of partisan foolishness. The President is doubtless bored to death with it already, but we hope he will speedily kick the four lawyers from Arkansas out of the White House and come to a decision without other aid than that of the District-Attorney and a gracious providence. The lives of the rabble following either "Governor" are not probably of much consequence to the world, yet modern humanity, not to say anything of our national reputation, demands the suppression even of dog fights.

Our friends of the World are frequently dropping into Latin; with them the language is not dead but sleeping. Yesterday, which was a moving day, moved the World to moralize on moving as it moved along in its elliptical orbit. One thing it said impressed us more than it is our habit to be impressed with anything in a newspaper. The sentiment of it is truer than a majority of Poor Richard's once popular aphorisms and cross-cut saws, and much more comprehensive of the chief fault and pervading weakness of the American people. But we ought to quote and will quote the World's sad, tear-compelling Latin: "Domum non animum mutant." That's the worst of it.

The New York Board of Supervisors are talking real naughty. A little difference occurred the other day about the payment of Mr. Jocks' bill for carpenter work done on one of the armories. The bill of Jocks was a manifest swindle after the style and likeness of Garvey's bills of old. Well, Supervisor Van-Schaick objected to auditing the account; whereupon Supervisor Kehr got mad and offered to horsewhip Van Schaick on the spot. The latter gentlemen declined with thanks, and Kehr—who is a little man but not afraid—fairly roared and howled with a desire to hit somebody. At this point, Jocks, being a joiner, joined in to help the little Kehr and volunteered the opinion that Van Schaick was "a loafer," "a swindler," "a skunk," and a "son of a gun." Hearing this, Van Schaick followed the fashion of his insulted father and went off. As they parted each of these officials accused the other of having been "in jail in Ulster county." How they have fallen since; alas!

The Hanging of Waltz.

Catskill has, we trust, returned to its accustomed quiet, and we hope has acquired a sense of shame that might have saved it much of the good opinion of the outside world if it had been manifested on Thursday. This man Waltz was a hideous murderer, but the very way he killed his victims with his selection of them demonstrated him a monomaniac on the subject of murder. There can be no doubt that he would have murdered five hundred people, one after another, if he had had an opportunity, and would have done it with as little sense of crime as afflicts a Texas cattle drover when he slashes his beeves in a pen, but unlike him with no motive whatever. So far as has appeared there was nothing to be gained by any murder he committed, and from the robbing of school-houses of books simply to destroy them, to the murder of the scissors-grinder, perhaps an organ-grinder, and at last his keeper, there doesn't appear a single motive except in the last, in which he might have expected to have gained his escape.—From first to last the creature showed evidence of monomania, and at last died like an animal. Two experts pronounced him sane, while three said he was clearly insane. This conflict of medical opinion was sufficient to have warranted delay for the satisfactory determination of his mental condition by a council of experts.

But a jury decided him sane and thus guilty of murder, for there can be no murder that is not born of intent, and no maniac is enough master of himself to form an intent. The law was enforced, and whatever has been gained in respect for it by the official hanging of Waltz it has. But not by consent of the people of Catskill, in whose name Rufus H. King sent word to Gov. Dix that a reprieve meant Waltz's death by lynch law. And Catskill on Thursday presented the strange sight of a gnashing, growling, cursing maniac in a cell, surrounded with a raving crowd of citizens howling for his blood. Whether the spirit of murder was in the mind of Waltz or not, whether he killed men as laborers pile stones on top of each other or with some idea of the iniquity of the act, certainly those men who represented Catskill knew it would be murder for them to kill Waltz, yet they openly clamored for his blood. They were murderers at heart, every one of them.

"Silence for Five Years."

It was held as an irrefutable point by an ultra-Pauline woman-hating old bachelor preacher that there were no woman in the New Jerusalem. On an ingnignant demand being made by a female evangelist for his reasons for the opinion, he quoted from St. John's account of his vision, "And there was silence in heaven for the space of half an hour." No exception was taken to this strong circumstantial evidence and a triumphant, hopeful smile stole across the weather-beaten face of the worn itinerant as he looked upward towards the sky. We are rather glad than otherwise that our affectionate and domestic constitution prohibits our sharing to the full the cynical minister's exaltation of mind at what may be a fact and which he manifestly relied on with all his soul. May he not have exaggerated or perverted the true influence to be drawn from the revelator's mention of that quiet interval separating the celestial noises? Would it not be a degree kinder and also maybe a shade juster, to suppose there are women in heaven, but owing to some tremendous feeling of astonishment (inconceivable by us in this life so filled with stale sensations) they were actually made voiceless for the brief space indicated? Being, as we had the honor to remark, of a charitable and loving disposition ourselves, we incline to this explanatory hypothesis. Even admitting it, we are still made captive by a very disagreeable deduction; and that is, the simple fact of the presence of so strange a minute in the Apocalyptic record involves the supposition that John himself was surprised that stillness was maintained so long. Now proceed we with inexpressible reluctance to forge a link or two in a logical chain. If in heaven, where no untoward event ever breaks the peace, and where no speeches or formal opinions are wanted on any subject, or, what is more to the purpose, when there is no provocation whatever to rouse a woman's temper, it is rare to find a half-hour free from the clatter of tongues (women's tongues, of course!), how, in the name of wonder, how can Rev. E. E. Hale expect the Vassar girls to take the advice which he quotes at them from Pythagoras, to the effect that "young people should keep silence for five years!" There! who will affirm now that Mr. Hale hadn't better keep silence himself than waste words in telling the girls to do it? Good gracious! what does the man suppose would become of those young ladies before that semi-decade was up; how could they court or be courted, play croquet, teach an infant class, go 'round crusading or resist the encroachments of tyrannical husbands? We won't say that Mr. Hale is a fool, for he is living and might resent it; but Pythagoras is dead, and so we'll take the chances of styling him an old pudding-head.

A Dinner and Some Good Toast.

There is an element of real satisfaction in hearing that so much of the American public as feels able to give honorary dinners is beginning to put its money and its viands to an improved use. We have dined and wined authors, poets, orators and politicians to the exclusion of many obscurer but more useful men nearly long enough. If there happens to be anything connected with a first-class gorge got up by Delmonico and paid for by a number of wealthy gentlemen which is in its nature complimentary to the recipient of it, then surely the workers among us are entitled to it no less than the talkers and writers. On this theory we are glad of the dinner given in honor of John Roach, the architect of the steamship City of Pekin and the first of American shipbuilders. Not merely for the sake of what Mr. Roach has done to make himself famous are we pleased to note the public recognition given him, but for the better reason that a new era may thereby be indicated in American shipbuilding. Just before the breaking out of the war the tonnage of vessels engaged in the carrying trade between the Union and foreign ports was as to the tonnage of all other vessels employed in the same way, about as two and one-half to one. In other words, we had more than twice all other tonnage doing the same work. Now the ease is precisely the reverse. Some of the causes for the lapse of most of our exports and imports into other bottoms are these: First, the taking away of so many ships from our merchant marine to serve the urgent uses of sudden war; second, the distrust which lead merchants to ship goods in foreign vessels for safety; third, the selling of our ships to citizens of nations then at peace for lack of safety under our flag; fourth, the actual destruction of hundreds of ships by rebel cruisers. Since the end of the war our shipping interests have never recovered; our fluctuating financial policies, the want of thorough and sensible legislation, the cheapness of English and Scotch labor and the poor material foreign artizans threw into attractive forms, having much to do in keeping our shipyards deserted and our workmen idle. The feeling that to allow the continuance of this state of things is as unwise as it is needless was the mainspring of the Roach dinner. Let us reiterate what we have before said in these columns: that the present condition of the American shipbuilding industry is a burning, branding disgrace to this nation; no matter how it happens or whose especial fault it is. We should be and must be the leading maritime people of the world; and if the next ten years fails to place us on the high road to it, we shall deserve the sardonic laugh of the coffin builders of the Clyde.

—Be very careful to pay your little bills nowadays. Every one you owe who is laboring by the day or week needs promptly the money he earns.

—Senator Schurz's eulogy of Sumner is pronounced not only worthy of its great subject but entitled to a place in the front rank of American oratory.

—The New York Times is making a special set upon Col. Fellows, who wants to deliver an oration when Ellsworth's monument is erected.

—Waltz killed three men and was hung once. A small problem in arithmetic will show that he had the better of society just sixty-six per cent.

—The Graphic is sticking pins into the Sun and hints that Dana himself is not immaculate. Dear, dear, is there anybody who can bear to be stirred up?

—Holman Hunt, the English artist, is about to marry his deceased wife's sister. That's an awful thing in England, but Hunt says he saves one mother-in-law by it.

—Things are getting nicely boiled down. A man who drinks rum because he can't help it is a dipsomaniac; one who can't help but drink is an alcoholist. We've long thirsted for that definition.

—Col. Fellows won't orate over Ellsworth when the monument is dedicated. Cause why? He fought on the wrong side in the war. "I charge thee, Fellows, fling away ambition."

—We have a report from the west we are glad to credit. Senator Schurz will, it is said, rest his re-election upon his fitness and ability and not seek to make combinations for that end. If Missouri threw over the ablest orator in America she can safely be ashamed of herself.

—Somebody has been petitioning the New York Board of Education to have the Irish language taught in the public schools. One reason is unique, because possibly that language was used in building the pyramids. Nobody appears to want to build any pyramids in New York.

—Pennsylvania feels sure she is to have a seat in the Cabinet. What is needed is not the satisfaction of claims for representation, but the appointment of a Secretary of the Treasury in whom the people have confidence and who has the ability to manage the finances.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—The lighting struck Butler's house, in Lowell, a few days ago, but not finding the General at home, left in a hurry.

—There is much excitement in Wisconsin over the new railroad law, which has aroused the determined opposition of the railroads, and has not yet been enforced.

—The new system of corporation taxation in Pennsylvania, includes a tax of three cents per ton on coal and a tax on the dividends of companies.

—President Grant is reported as receiving commendatory letters from the south and southwest in large quantities, for his recent veto.

—The government will send 500,000 rations of meat, flour, beans and rice, to the sufferers by the Mississippi overflow. This will feed only 20,000 persons for twenty-five days.

—Lord Spencer has done what is deemed a very liberal act in England. He has decided to rent an acre each to six of the laborers on his estate.

—Why, this man Grant don't know even how to do a sum in simple addition. He adds up 44 and 46 and cals it 100.—John Logan.

REGULAR DISPATCHES TO DAILY FREEMAN

FOREIGN.

SPAIN.

Bilbao to be Delivered.

MADRID, May 1.—The Carlists have abandoned their strong positions at San Pedro Abanto and San Juliana, which have been occupied by the republican forces. The occupation of Portugalete is expected to follow to-day and with it the immediate deliverance of Bilbao.

MADRID, May 1.—Dispatches from Santorder announce that the Carlists this afternoon were retreating in confusion and it is reported that the government forces have already entered Bilbao.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Comments on Inflation.

LONDON, May 2.—The Post in an editorial on the subject of American finances remarks that the hopes of a complete victory in the next presidential election entertained by the inflationists, or, properly speaking, the repudiationists, are melancholy to contemplate. Should they be realized then the declaration of independence would be celebrated by a declaration of independence of common honesty. The most ominous feature is that the struggle is sharply defined by geographical limits and threatens to become sectional, like the anti-slavery contest.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

Reduction for April.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The public debt statement shows a reduction of $2,965,451 during the month of April.

BOLD ROBBERY.

A Smart Thief in Boston.

BOSTON, May 1.—At the Merchants' Bank to-day, while Alexander A. McLauren was counting a package of money, a man diverted his attention momentarily by dropping two $2 bills on the floor, then seized a roll of $1,000 in bills and escaped.

THE CREDIT MOBILIER SUITS.

An Appeal to the Supreme Court.

NEW HAVEN, May 1.—In the United States Circuit Court, before Judges Woodruff and Shipman, the Credit Mobilier suits came up this afternoon for final action. A decree sustaining the demurrers of all those who have demurred and the answers of certain defendants were entered and signed by the court. The complainants thereupon prayed an appeal from said decree to the Supreme Court of the United States, which was entered and allowed by the court. Thomas A. Jenickes of Providence and J. Hubley Ashton, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the United States and Charles E. Gross of Hartford for defendants.

THE HOMESTEAD BUTCHERY.

Great Excitement over the Horrible Affair.

PITTSBURG, May 1.—Great excitement prevails at Homestead over the horrible butchery which took place there yesterday. There seems to be no doubt but that Ernest Lowe, a hired man, a Prussian about twenty-five years of age, is the murderer. The relatives of the murdered family offered a reward of $1,000 and the County Commissioners an additional $1,000 for the capture of the murderers.

TWO MINERS KILLED.

Two men named Jonathan Williams and William Neysmith were killed by an explosion of fire-damp in the coal mines at Irwins, Pa., to-day. The accident was caused by doors being left open in the air passages and it is supposed that the gas took fire from a lamp.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Boutwell on the Sanborn Contracts.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Senator Boutwell appeared before the Ways and Means Committee to-day, and made a statement in relation to the Sanborn contracts. He said that for two months his health had been so delicate as to enable him to do but little work. He had not read the testimony taken by the committee thus far. It was true he had examined into the matter before making any contracts, but he did not believe any money would be recovered under them.

He had left all legal details of the contracts to Mr. Banfield, the Solicitor of the Department, but held himself responsible for the acts of subordinates; and if wrong had been done, it was an error of judgment.

Mr. Boutwell was not examined at length.

THE DISTRICT INVESTIGATION.

The District of Columbia Investigation Committee to-day examined the property clerk of the Board of Public Works with reference to the method of issuing and receiving material for improvement.

Lewis Clephane, Collector of the district, named in the charges of the memorialists as one of the conspirators to obtain and control contracts, denied all knowledge of conspiracy and denounced the charge as a malicious slander. He read a letter to show that Governor Shepherd severed his connection with the Portland Cement Company and Metropolitan Pavement Company upon being appointed a member of the Board of Public Works.

Pending the examination of the witness the committee held an executive session to examine A. B. Kirtland, who was secured night before last in the Gilsey House in New York and brought to this city in custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate last night

Kirtland was examined in private session from 11:30 o'clock A. M. until three P. M. His story is substantially as follows: He admits that he received from Chittenden $72,000 in notes, but that he had at no time any arrangements or any negotiations with any member of the Board of Public Works; that after he received the notes he went to Colonel Moore, the business partner of Gov. Shepherd, and offered him one-half of them. Moore said he did not want notes, but if he [Kirtland] would get the notes discounted he might accept some of the money. Witness further testified that he got the notes discounted and applied the full proceeds to his own benefit and did not again offer Moore any share, nor did he receive any. He was cross-examined very closely, but the above is substantially all that could be elicited from him. Witness will be examined in public session to-morrow to afford counsel on both sides an opportunity to cross-examine him.

THE GENEVA AWARD.

The House Judiciary Committee to-day agreed to an important amendment to the Geneva award bill, to the effect that payment will be made to mutual insurance companies for all losses sustained by vessels for whose depredations we made a claim against Great Britain, provided no member of a mutual insurance company shall recover for any war premiums paid for such company for risks; in other words, they will be paid for all losses and cut off from the war premium. The amendment further provides that they shall distribute the money so paid them among their members who contributed to pay losses.

THE WEATHER.

To-Day's Probabilities.

For the Middle States light to fresh variable winds and partly cloudy weather with possibly light rain from New Jersey northwestward to the lower lake region.

THE SOUTHERN FLOOD.

Condition of the Mississippi.

MEMPHIS, May 1.—The following is a review of the situation along that portion of the Mississippi and its tributaries usually trading with Memphis: From Cairo to this point steamers cannot make landings on the west bank except at wharf boats; yet with the exception of at Osceola no serious damage to the planting interests has resulted. From the Louisiana line up there are no levees on the Arkansas side except local ones, and a large portion of the country is subject to inundation and is sparsely settled, as is the case opposite here, where the river spreads out to the high land near Madison, Arkansas, a distance of over forty miles. The St. Francis valley is generally a foot above the overflow and planters are waiting for dry weather to begin planting. The White River valley is inundated up to Indian Bay, but the damage is slight. Ten thousand dollars will probably cover the loss on stock, &c. The Arkansas valley is overflowed up to Arkansas Port; but, like others, the damage is light and $15,000 will probably cover it. From the mouth of the Arkansas down is where the greatest damage has resulted and where destitution undoubtedly exists among all classes, but particularly among laborers and their families. A large portion of the Tallahatchie and Yallabusha bottoms have been overflowed for some time, but at latest accounts the water was subsiding, but another crevasse was reported at Catfish Point, making the fourth in that vicinity, though as yet but few plantations have been injured. Sunflower River has thus far carried off the main body of water escaping through the Hishpuckano crevasse. Deer's Creek plantations have not suffered materially, but at Milliken's Bend, twenty-five miles above Vicksburg, is where the greatest damage has been done and where the greatest destitution and suffering prevails. Citizens here are making good progress in forwarding supplies to sufferers and have established depots from Napoleon to Vancluse Landing. They have heretofore sent relief to those above Napoleon. To-day they sent by the Capital City 10,000 pounds of bacon, 60 bales of hay, 100 sacks of corn, 75 barrels of flour and 100 barrels of meal. A lady from near Napoleon, whose husband was one of the wealthiest planters in that section, arrived here to-day and states that she left the family and plantation hands, numbering eighty, without food. All would have starved a few days since but for food furnished by the officers of the City of Vicksburg. The river is now stationary and within ten inches of the height of the flood of 1867.

ARKANSAS AFFAIRS.

Latest from Brooks.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The following was received to-day:

LITTLE ROCK, May 1.

To the President:—H. King White, who fired on the commander of the United States troops at Little Rock, has been ordered to Pine Bluff by Baxter and is pillaging and murdering. The state is perfectly peaceful except in Jefferson county, the scene of White's robberies and murders. I have refrained from sending out forces in order to avoid a conflict.

JOSEPH BROOKS,
Governor of Arkansas.

THE RECENT FIGHT.

MEMPHIS, May 1.—A private dispatch from Pine Bluff, Ark., confirms the report to the Associated Press last night with reference to the fight between the Baxter forces under General King White and the Brooks forces near Gascony. The dispatch states that E. Lee, son of Dr. Lee, and Pleasant Pendleton, a son of Dr. Pendleton, were slightly wounded. None were killed on White's side. On the other eleven negroes were killed and twenty wounded and twenty prisoners taken. General White holds all the white leaders as prisoners.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

LITTLE ROCK, May 1.—A Gazette special from Pine Bluff gives the following particulars of the fight near New Gascony on Thursday: Two hundred of Brooks' men, with Murphy and Van Desande as leaders, formed and threatened to come to Pine Bluff and take the Court House and burn every barn in the city. General King White went down with his white and colored mounted and foot men and after arriving within a short distance of the insurgents, who were at a gin house on the Ashley place, he sent forward three staff officers to order the insurgents to disband. When the latter saw the staff officers coming they immediately fired a volley upon them and orders from White were given to charge on the insurgents. They made a stand at Corn Stone Church and the fight began in earnest, but lasted only a short time. Six of White's command were wounded. Five of the insurgents were killed and twelve wounded, and Van Desande and sixty-three men captured. All but the two leaders were released on parole. Murphy and Van Desande are still in custody.

UNITED STATES CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 1.

The Senate disposed of a number of bills on the calendar, and after a brief executive session adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

Speeches on the general Indian question and of the policy to be pursued towards them were made by Hancock of Texas, Richmond of Pennsylvania, Knapp of Illinois, Wood of New York, Beck and Adams of Kentucky and Shanks of Indiana, after which the Clerk proceeded to read the bill by paragraphs for amendment.

The committee arose and the House at 4:45 P. M. took a recess till half-past seven, the evening session to be for the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill.

EVENING SESSION.

In the House evening session there was the usual lively debate over Indian matters and in regard to the war and peace policies as applied to the Indians.

Mr. MILLS of Texas offered an amendment and made a speech in favor of having the Kiowa chiefs, Satanta and Big Tree, who were convicted of murder in Texas a couple of years ago, delivered up again to the civil authorities of the state, but the proposition was not sanctioned by the House. At last, on some unimportant amendment, the minority insisted on having a quorum and as no quorum did vote the roll was called and it appeared there was only one hundred and twenty members present, being twenty-six less than a quorum. Then the absentees were called and only four more answered to their names. There was some inclination to go through the tedious and unprofitable process of sending the Sergant-at-Arms to bring in absentees, but more sensible counsels prevailed and the House agreed to adjourn at 10 o'clock.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Aquation is now agitated in England. It means burying the dead far out at sea. Funerals in ferry boats, and all that sort of thing, you know.

—It is stated a witness will be produced in the Kelsey case, who will prove that the legs found in Huntington bay were those of an unknown person, placed there by collusion with interested persons.

—Abel Shepard, of Huntington, Vt., sues the Montpelier Argus for $5,000 for libel in publishing his name in its black list of delinquent subscribers, when he can show a receipt for his subscription.

—In the silk of this season there is every shade of gray, strawberry, copper, olive, serge, cocoa, brown, drab, rose, lilac, lavender, blue and maize, with innumerable neutral tints.

—The preparations made by the United States for the observation of the transit of Venus are most ample, and were consummated years ago. Congress appropriated $150,000 and the aid of naval vessels. Eight parties are getting ready to go out.

—Major John H. Glass of Trenton, Tenn., went over to Dresden the other day, to pay $1,000 for a negro man that he bought seventeen years ago. He executed his note payable when the young man became of age, which event occurred a few days ago.

—Miss Anna Ingraham of Brooklyn is a very practical crusader. She visited fifty-two liquor saloons Sunday, the 19th inst., and bought twenty cents' worth of brandy in each. She now demands that their licenses be revoked.

—Rev. Robert Collyer of Chicago, who has been named by Dr. Patton as a witness in prosecuting Rev. David Swing for heresy, says it is the greatest insult he has received from any quarter since he went to Chicago to live. He refuses to aid in "mousing out heresy."

—The Lockport Journal says the editors around the state have already commenced saving up their money that they may attend the convention to be held in that city next June. This silences the calumnious charge that editors are in the habit of dead-beating it wherever they go.

—The late Aimee Desclee is now said to have owed her illness to the disastrous effects of a discovery that a young woman who lived with her as a companion had been systematically robbing her. She was strongly attached to this person, and the revelation of her perfidy and ingratitude was more than she could bear.

—Much of the most valuable land in Georgia was originally distributed by lottery, and many owners of real estate have abstracts of title going back to lottery tickets. The system is to be revived. The Legislature has authorized a scheme for the sale of lands by lottery, and an office is to be opened in Augusta. It is expected that the owners of large plantations will subscribe.

—A Pittsburg dispatch states that most of the oil producers have combined to suspend until the scarcity of petroleum compels an advance in price. Nearly all of the producers in St. Petersburg, Petrolia, Korus City and Millerstown have shut down. In Butler county one hundred and seven out of one hundred and thirty-one wells have shut down for three months.

—We have profound respect for those who labor conscientiously to save their fellow-men from the sad effects of an ungoverned appetite. But we have an unutterable contempt for those who make a trade of temperance while supporting drunkards for office—and we believe this contempt is shared by an overwhelming majority of the citizens of our state.—Utica Observer.

—Grant is now assured of his third term, and I have no doubt he will be continued in office for the next thirty or forty years, if he so desires. He has secured the support of the eighteen hundred national banks of this country, and, as the population of the country is a little over 40,000,000, what can such a handful of people expect to do against the combined money interest?—John A. Logan.

—A jail delivery in Hempstead county, Arkansas, was not as healthy for fugitives as the recent break out in Delaware. They threw a blanket over the jailor's head and pushed him into a cell, but he emptied his revolver. One prisoner, J. P. Smith, received three bullets, each probably fatal; another, William Puckett, was killed, and two negroes escaped with lesser injuries. This shows what a resolute jailor can do, even with a blanket over his head.

LAWS OF NEW YORK.—By Authority.

[Every law, unless a different time shall be prescribed therein, shall commence and take effect throughout the State, on and not before the twentieth day after the day of its final passage, as certified by the Secretary of State. Sec. 12, title 4, chap. 7, part 1, Revised Statutes.]

CHAP. 189.

AN ACT to provide security against extraordinary conflagrations, and for the creation of safety funds by fire insurance companies.

PASSED April 16, 1874; three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Hereafter it shall be lawful for any fire insurance company, organized under the laws of this State, to create the funds herein provided for, to be known and designated as the guarantee surplus fund and the special reserve fund, and to avail itself of the provisions of this act upon complying with the requirements thereof.

§ 2. Any fire insurance company desiring to create such funds shall be and it is hereby authorized to do so, upon the adoption of a resolution by its board of directors at a regular meeting thereof, and filing with the Superintendent of the Insurance Department a copy thereof, declaring the desire and intention of such company to create such funds and to do business under the provisions of this act; and as soon after the filing of such copy of the resolution as convenient, the Superintendent shall make a certificate of the result thereof, which shall particularly set forth the amount of surplus funds held by such company at the date of such examination, which, under the provisions of this act, are to and may be equally divided between and be set apart to constitute said guaranty surplus and special reserve funds, which certificate shall be recorded in the Insurance Department; and from and after the date of the recording of such certificate, all the policies and renewal of policies issued by such company shall have printed thereon, by such company, a note that the same are issued under and in pursuance of this act, referring to the same by its chapter, date and title; and such policies and renewals shall be deemed to have been issued and received subject to the provisions of this act.

§ 3. After the date mentioned in any such resolution so passed and filed, it shall not be lawful for such company to make, declare or pay, in any form, any dividend upon its capital stock, exceeding seven per centum per annum thereupon and upon the surplus funds to be formed hereunder, until after its guaranty surplus fund and its special reserve fund shall have together accumulated to an amount equal to its said capital stock, and the entire surplus profits of such company above such annual dividend of seven per cent shall be equally divided between and be set apart to constitute the said guaranty surplus fund and the said special reserve fund, which said funds shall be held and used as hereinafter provided and not otherwise; and any company doing business under this act, which shall declare or pay any divided contrary to the provisions herein contained, shall be liable to be proceeded against by the Attorney General for its dissolution.

§ 4. Said guaranty surplus fund shall be held and invested by such company the same as its capital stock and surplus accumulation; and shall be liable and applicable in the same manner as the capital stock to the payment generally of the losses of such company.

§ 5. Said special reserve fund shall be invested according to existing laws relating to investments of capital by fire insurance companies, and shall be deposited from time to time as the same shall accumulate and shall be invested with the Superintendent of the Insurance Department, who shall permit the company depositing the same to change such deposits by substituting for those withdrawn others of equal amount and value, and to collect and receive the interests or dividends upon such securities as the same may accrue; and such special reserve fund shall be deemed a fund contributed by the stockholders to protect such company and its policy-holders other than claimants for losses already existing or then incurred, in case of such extraordinary conflagration or conflagrations as hereinafter mentioned; and said fund shall not be regarded as any part or portion of the assets in possession of said company, so as to be or render the same liable for any claim or claims for losses, by fire or otherwise, except as herein provided.

§ 6. In estimating the profit of any such company, for the purpose of making a division thereof, between such guaranty surplus fund and such special reserve fund, there shall be deducted from the gross assets of the company, including for this purpose the amount of the special reserve fund, the sum of the following items: First, the amount of all outstanding claims; second, an amount sufficient to meet the liability of such company for the unearned premiums upon its unexpired policies, which amount shall be at least equal to one-half of the premiums received on policies having less than one year to run from date of policy, and a pro rata proportion of the premiums received on policies having more than one year to run from date of policy, and shall be known as the re-insurance liability; third, the amount of its guaranty surplus fund and of its special reserve fund; fourth, the amount of the capital of the company; and fifth, interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum upon the amount of capital and, of the said funds, for whatever time shall have elapsed since the last preceding cash dividend; and the balance shall constitute the net surplus of the company, subject to an equal division between the said funds, as herein provided.

§ 7. In the event of any extensive conflagration or conflagrations, whereby the claims upon such company shall exceed the amount of the capital stock, and of the guaranty surplus fund provided for by this act, the said company shall notify the said Superintendent of the fact, who shall then make or cause to be made an examination of said company, and shall issue his certificate of the result, showing the amounts of capital, of guaranty surplus fund, of special reserve fund, of re-insurance liability and of other assets; and upon his issuing such certificate in duplicate, one copy to be given the company and one to be recorded in the Insurance Department, the said special reserve fund shall be immediately held to protect all policy-holders of such company other than such as are claimants upon it at the time, or such as become such claimants in consequence of such conflagration or conflagrations, and the amount of said special reserve fund, and an amount equal to the unearned premiums of such company, to be ascertained as hereinbefore provided, shall constitute the capital and assets of such company for the protection of policy-holders other than such claimants, and for the further conduct of its business; and such official certificate of Superintendent shall be binding and conclusive upon all parties interested in such company, whether as stockholders, creditors, or policy-holders; and upon the payment to the claimants for losses or otherwise, existing at the time of, or caused by, such general conflagration or conflagrations, of the amount to which they are respectively entitled, in proportion to their several claims, of the full sum of the capital of such company and of its guaranty surplus fund, and of its assets, excepting only such special reserve fund and an amount of its assets equal to the liability of the company for unearned premiums, as so certified by such Superintendent, such company shall be forever discharged from any and all further liability to such claimants, and to each of them. And the said Superintendent shall, after issuing his said certificate, upon the demand of such company, transfer to it all such securities as shall have been deposited with him by such company as such special reserve fund; and if the amount of such special reserve fund be less than fifty per cent, of the full amount of the capital of the company, a requisition shall be issued by the said Superintendent upon the stockholders, to make up such capital to that proportion of its full amount, in the manner now provided by law, in the case of companies with impaired capitals; and, provided further, that any capital so impaired shall be made up to at least the sum of two hundred thousand dollars. And in case said company, after such requisition, shall fail to make up in its capital to at least said amount of two hundred thousand dollars, as therein directed, said special reserve fund shall still be held as security, and liable for any and all losses occurring upon policies of such company after such conflagration or conflagrations. Such company shall, in its annual statement to the Insurance Department of this State, set forth the amount of such special reserve fund, and of its guaranty surplus fund.

§ 8. If, at any time after such special reserve fund shall have been accumulated by any company, it shall appear, upon examination by the said Superintendent, that the capital of such company has, in the absence of any such extensive conflagration, become impaired so as to cause him to order a call upon the stockholders to make up such impairment, the board of directors of such company may either comply with such order and require the necessary payment by the stockholders, or at their option they may apply for that purpose so much of said special reserve fund as will make such impairment good. No company doing business under this act shall insure any larger amount upon any single risk than is permitted by law to a company possessing the same amount of capital, irrespective of the funds hereby provided for.

§ 9. This act shall take effect immediately.

STATE OF NEW YORK, Office of the Secretary of State, } ss.:

I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.

DIEDRICH WILLERS, JR.,
Secretary of State.

CITY NOTES.

—Mrs. Heimer, the hair dresser and worker, has moved to the old Sherman House.

—Five Aldermen have property on Garden street, and have signed the petition to have it paved.

—"Where do you intend to spend the winter next summer?" is now the usual salutation on the street.

—George Colville is still in the ice business, as will be seen by his advertisement in another column.

—The Freeman local had many callers on Friday morning before 11 o'clock to know if "Waltz had been hung yet?"

—On Friday 51 canal boats laden with 6,494 tons of coal reached tide water through the Delaware & Hudson Canal.

—Quarterly Conference will be held in the Rondout M. E. Church to-night, commencing at 7:30 o'clock.

—The Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance will meet in this city on the 12th of May.

—W. B. Crane, Jas. McCausland and Chas. M. Preston were elected Trustees of the Rondout Presbyterian Church last evening.

—As soon as the news of Waltz's execution was received here half a dozen hand organs broke into jolly strains around The Freeman bulletin board announcing the fact.

—A certain good lady has taken the weather in sober earnest and trotted out her buckwheat cake apparatus and flapjack fixins. Buckwheat cakes and maple syrup in May, eh! Well, this kind of weather has its comforts, after all.

—It's an odd fact that uptown people have about four times as much ashes as downtown citizens. We don't know whether cremation is being practiced by the former or not, but the Street Superintendent reports that the largest number of loads of ashes he has taken from one residence downtown is four, while it is quite common for an uptown man to give him from fifteen to eighteen.

—There is a great deal of talk uptown about the hat factory that, as supposed, will be erected soon on one of John O'Reilly's lots near the Wilbur road. So far, we understand, no contract for putting up such building has been made, and it is doubtful if the parties have as yet decided where the factory should be erected. A stock company is being formed, but we believe is not yet fully organized.

Personal.

Mr. Henry Hardy, the Superintendent of the Laflin & Rand Powder Works at Rifton, will remove his family into the city next week and reside on Fair street.

Religious Notes.

Rev. J. Y. Bates, Presiding Elder of the Newburgh District, will preach in the Rondout M. E. Church on Sunday evening. On Sunday morning he will preach in Esopus.

Rev. Mr. F. S. Barnum will preach in the Second Reformed Church on Fair street Sunday morning at 10:45 and evening at 7:30.

The Women's Temperance Movement.

The following are the officers of the uptown Women's Temperance Movement: President, Mrs. J. W. Gorse, Second M. E. Church; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Wakeley, First Reformed; Mrs. Wm. Mickins, Presbyterian; Mrs. R. Thompson, Baptist; Mrs. M. L. Rawson, Second Reformed; Mrs. Hunt, Second Methodist; Mrs. Fowler, Episcopal; Mrs. Mary E. Brink, First Methodist. Recording Secretary, Ida N. Van Deusen; Corresponding Secretary, Lena W. Decker; Treasurer, Mrs. Dunwoody.

A Good Joke.

Some time since a motion was offered before the Common Council to allow each of the Chief Engineers one hundred dollars per annum for traveling expenses. It was opposed, and an opportunity was presented to some of our City Fathers to make a buncombe speech on economy. Now Chief Weber sends in his bill, which amounts to over two hundred dollars, and ex-Chief Gross' bill is yet to be heard from. The Chiefs think that is not very good economy on the part of the Aldermen.

The Tale of a Cow.

Horace Humphrey is the owner of a red cow—a milch cow—and a critter that was possessed of a magnificent fly smasher. Horace loved that animal; but to his great grief and dismay a few days ago he found she had lost her tail. In what manner she became bereft of this necessary piece of cow furniture is a mystery, though some people are so unkind as to say the tail was only cemented on, and that when Horace bought the critter, he was fearfully sold.

END OF WALTZ!

THE EXECUTION AT CATSKILL.

SCENES AT THE GALLOWS!

Interview of His Friends with Waltz —He Goes Stolidly to His Death without a Word—His Neck Broken—Post-Mortem Examination.

By Our Own Reporter.

CATSKILL, May 1.

Our readers were furnished on Friday with the particulars of the latest savage outbreak of Waltz, the Catskill muderer and its consequences to officer Ernst by special dispatches from our reporter at the scene up to half past nine Thursday night. The full moon bathed the earth in silvery light and to a late hour the populace filled the streets, and the one subject heard of on all sides was the Waltz case. It would have been very unpopular for anyone to even hint at Waltz's insanity, for the unanimous expression of feeling was that of execration for the person denounced by all as a bloodthirsty brute. Now and then a professional man or a stranger would venture to mildly intimate the possibility of insanity, but these remarks were always made in retired corners and never where a Catskillian could be supposed to have a chance at overhearing them.

THE EXECUTION.

Bright and glorious dawned the first of May, the sun rising radiant over the eastern hills, gilding the romantic and storied Catskills, with the freshly fallen snow on their peaks and sides, and gradually mellowing the frosty air, bringing a sense of beauty and life and gladness strangely at variance with the scene so soon to be enacted in the little jail on the hill. Early the streets of the picturesque village were astir with the denizens of the town, and many there were who gave every appearance of having wooed the drowsy god to little effect, for they had been seen late at night and were about with almost the first blush of dawn. The soldier boys had made a night of it at the Irving House, and the sound of their revelry had resounded through its hallways all through the dark watches.

Early in the morning the "sturdy yeomanry" began pouring in from the country around, and on every side was seen an air of expectancy and eagerness painful to contemplate when reflecting that the attraction of the day was the taking of a human life. At eight o'clock the space about the jail, where not kept clear by the soldiers, began to be filled up by spectators called there simply from morbid curiosity, for the military with inexorable bayonets barred the entrance to the scene of the execution. Still, just the same they crowded about, till by ten o'clock, the hour of the hanging, a dense multitude was assembled in the immediate vicinity, the only space kept clear being the narrow street leading to the jail, across which the soldiers formed, the intervening space between the line and the entrance to the jail being patrolled by sentinels with fixed bayonets. About the yard of the jail a cordon of militia was also stationed. That these soldiers were efficient in keeping order we can testify; whether or not they would have been of valuable aid in case of an attack of lynchers an idea can be formed from the remarks of some of them that "they wouldn't shoot any one who should attempt to hang the scoundrel." It was universally conceded that had a stay of proceedings been granted no power at hand could have prevented the lynching of the prisoner by the angry crowd, many of whom gloated over the event of the day as if it were a most amusing entertainment.

PREPARING FOR THE END.

Inside of the jail preparations for the execution went on, Sheriff Coonley actively though nervously superintending everything. Waltz had been quiet during the night, guarded by officers Whitcomb and Olmstead. He had slept but little, and refused to talk, sometimes responding to questions by a low, brutish grunt, but never looking at the questioner or appearing cognizant of anything about him. At about eight o'clock he was prepared for the execution, being washed and dressed. He wore a black coat and vest, gray cassimere trowsers, buckled about the waist by a strap, white linen shirt and collar, black tie and light shoes. As he sat upon the sofa, stolid, indifferent and sullen he was the most perfect specimen of a brute in human form we ever saw. There was not a single indication of feeling—only a dull, ugly appearance, now and then intensified by a peculiar twist of the facial muscles more like a dog snarling than anything we can think of as a comparison. He was somewhat under size, of stout build, with a clear, fair complexion, pale from long confinement, and a heavy growth of reddish brown hair and beard. Thus he sat, guarded by the two officers, till his friends arrived and entered the cell to talk with him.

SCENES OUTSIDE.

The crowd outside the jail showed very plainly that they felt no sympathy for the man so soon to die inside, and frequently exclamations could be heard of fiercest execration. One of the most virulent of the mass was a German, who was giving the crowd his version of the affair. According to his story, the whole family of Waltzes were the most desperate and depraved characters possible. He asserted that the old man Waltz had been obliged to flee from Germany because he killed a man, and that Joe and his sister were brought up in a school to which that of Fagin the Jew was a perfectly moral one. The scene was a remarkable one; for beside the excited German, who stood in the yard of the dwelling adjoining the jail, was Mrs. Holcher, wife of the murdered scissorgrinder, and her son, who joined heartily in the fierce denunciation of Waltz and his family, and expressed the most earnest wishes to have a hand in hanging Joe. As the hour of execution approached the crowd grew more demonstrative and would jeeringly allude to the brief time the criminal had to live, with remarks that he ought to be put to a lingering death by the most torturing method. Cremation, stuck with bayonets and various other neat and novel appliances for getting the breath out of a man by means calculated to inflict the greatest agony, were suggested; but never a word of kindness or mercy. His last attempt had seemed to convince even the coolest-headed and most humane that he was a fiend in human shape and deserved all the tortures that could be put upon him.

Once the old man Waltz passed through the crowd. He was stopped by one of the soldiers, but was quickly let through when he quietly remarked, "I am Waltz, the father of him in there," pointing to the jail. No very decided demonstration was made as he walked along, but threatening murmurs were heard, and it was plain to be seen there was no good feeling toward him. Indeed, we afterward heard it remarked that he could not safely remain in that vicinity more than two weeks.

THE FINAL INTERVIEW.

After Waltz was washed and dressed, he was securely pinioned, but finally the straps were taken off, at the suggestion of his keepers. The prisoner sat on the lounge looking very stupid and simple, with his eyes cast down, between his keepers, William H. Whitcomb and Rufus Olmstead. Soon after his mother and sister came in to bid him farewell. Waltz showed great affection for his mother in a peculiar way—by jumping up and throwing his arms around her. In fact he was so demonstrative that he tore her vail off, and would have torn her clothing had not his keepers by great efforts released her. His actions so frightened her that she left the room. The sister remained and in a very feeling tone spoke to him as follows:

"Joseph, you are to meet your God in a few minutes. Let your thoughts be placed on him. Pray to him and ask him to forgive your sins. You will have to suffer, as the law must take its course. Are you sorry, Joseph, for this last deed? It will only be an hour and you must die. Won't you speak to me? Can't you speak to me; only just one word? I have always been good to you, Joseph, and have tried to make you a good boy. I have done everything for you that could be done. We have had experts to see you, and have done everything possible for you. Won't you be so kind as to speak one word?" The following was said in German: "If you have anything to say to me before I go, or before you die, say it to me now."

Waltz did not seem to notice her, but remained in that same sullen attitude and would not say a word. His sister then left the cell.

Dr. Whitmore then examined the prisoner and said that respiration was natural, and that the pupil of the eye was also natural, although he tried to look as insane as possible.

Major A. W. Thomas, who washed and dressed him, was of the opinion that he was still feigning insanity by remaining in that stupid and careless attitude.

Different persons stood before him, and asked him questions, but he would not notice them, and hardly looked at them. Father O'Driscoll came in and up to Waltz and said: "Joseph, will you shake hands with me? give me your hand, Joseph, I want to say some prayers with you. Tell me where the prayer book is that I gave you." Waltz did not notice him; when the prayer book was found, Father O'Driscoll said, "Joseph, when I gave you this book you promised to pray for yourself. Tell me now if you have done so." The priest then prayed.

GOING TO THE GALLOWS.

Waltz's arms were then pinioned and the procession started for the room at the head of the stairs on the second floor, where the execution was to take place. First went the jury, who were to witness the fulfillment of the sentence, as follows: George Beach, foreman: George R. Olney, secretary; Wm. Smith, W. K. Reed, Louis Goeltz, Oliver Bourke, Arthur W. Thomas, George H. Martin, S. W. Briggs, Harry Edwards, Edward J. Hodge, George S. Stevens. Next came Father O'Driscoll, reading the service for the dead; then Waltz, between officers Olmstead and Cooke. Waltz walked firmly up the stairs, making no struggle, and the only sign of animation he showed was a peculiar twist of the head and an ugly grimace.

The doomed man and his escort entered the room where the execution was to take place about 10:12 o'clock. Father O'Driscoll read the prayer for the dead and Sheriff Coonley read the death warrant, and then asked Waltz if he had anything to say before the law was carried into effect. To this Waltz made no reply except a slight grunt and the same ugly look and purposeless staring.

THE BLACK CAP

was then drawn over his face and tied around the neck by a narrow black ribbon, and the noose, made of hempen rope about a quarter of an inch thick, passed over his head and adjusted to his neck, the knot coming just below the left ear. The signal was given at 10:16½ that all was ready, and Sheriff Coonley stepped to the northeast corner of the room and pulled the cord connected with the lever above. Instantly

WALTZ ROSE WITH A BOUND

and fell heavily back, hanging perfectly straight and motionless, with the exception of a slight muscular twitching. Drs. Mackey and Collins stationed themselves on either side of Waltz and reported the state of his pulse and indications of respiration. Two minutes after the rise of the body there was a very slight twitching, and this was the only sign of life during his suspension. The pulse beat 66, the natural rate being 72. At two and a half minutes it beat 53. At three minutes the action of the heart was slightly intermittent. At four minutes pulsation was very feeble. At four and a half minutes it beat more forcibly. At five minutes it beat more rapidly, with loss of some force. At five and a half minutes its action was intermitting. At six minutes it was still intermitting. At six and a half minutes respiration ceased. At seven minutes the action of the heart was very feeble. At seven and a half minutes pulsation ceased at the wrists. At eight minutes the pulsation of the heart was very feeble. At eight and a half minutes the heart beat 41; at nine 35; at ten 32; at eleven 27; at twelve 24, and at fourteen all pulsation ceased.

While the body was hanging old Waltz came into the room, and shaking hands with the Sheriff remarked that it was all over now, but showed no very marked feelings of emotion.

THE DEAD AND THE DYING.

Across the hall, directly opposite to the room in which Waltz hung, lay poor Ernst, his head covered with cloths, keeping from sight the horrible wounds, and all unconscious of the scene in the other apartment, slowly nearing the mysterious bourne to which his murderer had been so hurriedly sent. No one expressed the slightest hope for the wounded man, the opinion of all being that it was his wonderful vitality that prevented him from yielding sooner to the power of the death that surely claimed him.

THE MOURNERS.

In the Sheriff's room on the first floor were the Waltz family, father, mother and sister of Joe. The parents were neatly dressed and the old lady sat quietly reading a prayer-book, the old man sat gloomily apart, and the daughter with tear-stained eyes was poring over a large Bible she had taken from a table in the room. She was plainly and tastefully dressed in black; and had a face not unprepossessing, and scarcely seeming to justify the bad things that had been said of her.

THE VERDICT.

The jury retired after the surgeons had declared Waltz dead, and signed a verdict to the effect that he came to his death according to sentence duly passed upon him of hanging by the neck.

The body, after hanging over half an hour, was taken down, the neck found to have been dislocated. A post-mortem examination was decided upon by the physicians, the result of which we give below.

THE POST-MORTEM EXAMINATION.

At the post-mortem examination of Waltz's brain it was ascertained that the skull measured 7¾ inches anteriorly and posteriorly, and 6 inches laterally. The brain, which was in a perfectly healthy state, weighed 54 ounces. The size and weight of the brain would indicate extraordinary intellectual ability, and prove Waltz to be anything but an idiot. Rulloff's brain weighed 54 ounces, while Daniel Webster's weighed 56 ounces.

THE REMAINS

were placed in a plain black coffin, on the lid of which was a plate inscribed

"JOSEPH WALTZ,
AGED 23 YEARS."

It is the intention of the officials to give the body a quiet, private burial, and no persons will be allowed to view the remains.

THE MURDERER'S CELL.

After the execution there was a great rush to the cell recently occupied by the murderer. It affords some remarkable indications of the workings of the strange man's mind. On the iron walls of the cell are a number of pictures, with inscriptions and verses. The most conspicuous picture is that of a balloon about two feet long, and elaborate in details. It is labelled "Excelsior," and Union flags float from the basket, in which stands a man. From the mouth of this passenger, who is presumably the murderer, are printed the words, "Good bye, mother!" Near this is a flower pot full of inharmoniously colored flowers, standing on a table from which a flag hangs. Under it Waltz has written:

Dear Union flag, within whose spell,
I find a safe defence from hell,
Nor lion's force, nor demon's guide,
Shall break my flower pot the while.

Written in all the colors at his disposal, each word being of a different hue from the one next to it, is this.

Far up in the moon no bad spirits go,
And as it will make a bright home for this Joe—
For there I'll see God and the angels no doubt,
And so I must go—my dear friends let me out.

And now let me shake off this slumbering trance,
And kill every devil, and onward advance,
For my spirit is like an inflated balloon,
In which I am going to sail to the moon.

There are also three figures, a circle, triangle and square, carefully and exactly drawn, and inside the figures are contained these inscriptions, in black and blue—"Earth and Life [Here];" in the triangle—"Hell and Death [Below];" in the square—"Heaven and Eternity [Above]." Over the figures is an appropriate and characteristic verse.

A large sun, in red, with a profusion of rays and a human face in the centre, has this verse appended:

Sabians, feel thy power
At midnight's darkest hour,
Thou gentle sun.

And under a star close by the sun:

Sabians, fill thy power,
Which makes these spirits cower,
Thou brilliant star.

The following is surrounded by a border of grapes and human faces:

The ghosts and spirits
That haunt the nights
Are dreadful sights.

Stretched across the corner over the bed are strings, hung from which are shreds of colored cloths, making a sort of fringe.

The pictures are strikingly faithful in every detail, drawn with colored crayons, and the lines as true as if sketched by mathematical measurement. The verses and inscriptions are printed in full, round, accurately formed letters, and there is a finish about all of the work leading the ignorant observer to suppose it done by hands skilled by long practice, aided by a brain perfected by long study—and all of it is the work of this uneducated, wonderful countryman, who died like a dog and gave no sign of human feeling.

Disappointed Men.

This happened in Poughkeepsie:—Yesterday morning a man walking along the upper end of Main street was suddenly taken with a fit, and fell over into a snow bank. Singularly enough the first person to reach him was Coroner Wilson Hicks, and still more singularly the next was undertaker Depew, and on the next corner stood a physician and a newspaper reporter. The unfortunate man was taken into undertaker Depew's store, where he soon revived, and was sent home in a carriage.

Tows.

The following were yesterday's tows:

Steamer G. A. Hoyt—Ice barge Dater, barge J. J. Maber, boat Josephine, J. H. Starin, C. H. Foley, Liberty, Sarah, Agnes to New York.

Propeller Farrington—Boat Hiram Masten to Hyde Park.

Steamer Herald—Barge Dunmore, Buena Vista, S. Seymour, P. A. Moore, Jas. Mancrief, Perkins, No. 19, barge Cornet to New Baltimore; boat Alfred, Budington to Athens; D. & H. C. Co. boats to Albany.

CITY NOTES.

—Mrs. Heimer, the hair dresser and worker, has moved to the old Sherman House.

—Five Aldermen have property on Garden street, and have signed the petition to have it paved.

—"Where do you intend to spend the winter next summer?" is now the usual salutation on the street.

—George Colville is still in the ice business, as will be seen by his advertisement in another column.

—The Freeman local had many callers on Friday morning before 11 o'clock to know if "Waltz had been hung yet?"

—On Friday 51 canal boats laden with 6,494 tons of coal reached tide water through the Delaware & Hudson Canal.

—Quarterly Conference will be held in the Rondout M. E. Church to-night, commencing at 7:30 o'clock.

—The Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance will meet in this city on the 12th of May.

—W. B. Crane, Jas. McCausland and Chas. M. Preston were elected Trustees of the Rondout Presbyterian Church last evening.

—As soon as the news of Waltz's execution was received here half a dozen hand organs broke into jolly strains around The Freeman bulletin board announcing the fact.

—A certain good lady has taken the weather in sober earnest and trotted out her buckwheat cake apparatus and flapjack fixins. Buckwheat cakes and maple syrup in May, eh! Well, this kind of weather has its comforts, after all.

—It's an odd fact that uptown people have about four times as much ashes as downtown citizens. We don't know whether cremation is being practiced by the former or not, but the Street Superintendent reports that the largest number of loads of ashes he has taken from one residence downtown is four, while it is quite common for an uptown man to give him from fifteen to eighteen.

—There is a great deal of talk uptown about the hat factory that, as supposed, will be erected soon on one of John O'Reilly's lots near the Wilbur road. So far, we understand, no contract for putting up such building has been made, and it is doubtful if the parties have as yet decided where the factory should be erected. A stock company is being formed, but we believe is not yet fully organized.

Personal.

Mr. Henry Hardy, the Superintendent of the Laflin & Rand Powder Works at Rifton, will remove his family into the city next week and reside on Fair street.

Religious Notes.

Rev. J. Y. Bates, Presiding Elder of the Newburgh District, will preach in the Rondout M. E. Church on Sunday evening. On Sunday morning he will preach in Esopus.

Rev. Mr. F. S. Barnum will preach in the Second Reformed Church on Fair street Sunday morning at 10:45 and evening at 7:30.

The Women's Temperance Movement.

The following are the officers of the uptown Women's Temperance Movement: President, Mrs. J. W. Gorse, Second M. E. Church; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Wakeley, First Reformed; Mrs. Wm. Mickins, Presbyterian; Mrs. R. Thompson, Baptist; Mrs. M. L. Rawson, Second Reformed; Mrs. Hunt, Second Methodist; Mrs. Fowler, Episcopal; Mrs. Mary E. Brink, First Methodist. Recording Secretary, Ida N. Van Deusen; Corresponding Secretary, Lena W. Decker; Treasurer, Mrs. Dunwoody.

A Good Joke.

Some time since a motion was offered before the Common Council to allow each of the Chief Engineers one hundred dollars per annum for traveling expenses. It was opposed, and an opportunity was presented to some of our City Fathers to make a buncombe speech on economy. Now Chief Weber sends in his bill, which amounts to over two hundred dollars, and ex-Chief Gross' bill is yet to be heard from. The Chiefs think that is not very good economy on the part of the Aldermen.

The Tale of a Cow.

Horace Humphrey is the owner of a red cow—a milch cow—and a critter that was possessed of a magnificent fly smasher. Horace loved that animal; but to his great grief and dismay a few days ago he found she had lost her tail. In what manner she became bereft of this necessary piece of cow furniture is a mystery, though some people are so unkind as to say the tail was only cemented on, and that when Horace bought the critter, he was fearfully sold.

END OF WALTZ!

THE EXECUTION AT CATSKILL.

SCENES AT THE GALLOWS!

Interview of His Friends with Waltz —He Goes Stolidly to His Death without a Word—His Neck Broken—Post-Mortem Examination.

By Our Own Reporter.

CATSKILL, May 1.

Our readers were furnished on Friday with the particulars of the latest savage outbreak of Waltz, the Catskill muderer and its consequences to officer Ernst by special dispatches from our reporter at the scene up to half past nine Thursday night. The full moon bathed the earth in silvery light and to a late hour the populace filled the streets, and the one subject heard of on all sides was the Waltz case. It would have been very unpopular for anyone to even hint at Waltz's insanity, for the unanimous expression of feeling was that of execration for the person denounced by all as a bloodthirsty brute. Now and then a professional man or a stranger would venture to mildly intimate the possibility of insanity, but these remarks were always made in retired corners and never where a Catskillian could be supposed to have a chance at overhearing them.

THE EXECUTION.

Bright and glorious dawned the first of May, the sun rising radiant over the eastern hills, gilding the romantic and storied Catskills, with the freshly fallen snow on their peaks and sides, and gradually mellowing the frosty air, bringing a sense of beauty and life and gladness strangely at variance with the scene so soon to be enacted in the little jail on the hill. Early the streets of the picturesque village were astir with the denizens of the town, and many there were who gave every appearance of having wooed the drowsy god to little effect, for they had been seen late at night and were about with almost the first blush of dawn. The soldier boys had made a night of it at the Irving House, and the sound of their revelry had resounded through its hallways all through the dark watches.

Early in the morning the "sturdy yeomanry" began pouring in from the country around, and on every side was seen an air of expectancy and eagerness painful to contemplate when reflecting that the attraction of the day was the taking of a human life. At eight o'clock the space about the jail, where not kept clear by the soldiers, began to be filled up by spectators called there simply from morbid curiosity, for the military with inexorable bayonets barred the entrance to the scene of the execution. Still, just the same they crowded about, till by ten o'clock, the hour of the hanging, a dense multitude was assembled in the immediate vicinity, the only space kept clear being the narrow street leading to the jail, across which the soldiers formed, the intervening space between the line and the entrance to the jail being patrolled by sentinels with fixed bayonets. About the yard of the jail a cordon of militia was also stationed. That these soldiers were efficient in keeping order we can testify; whether or not they would have been of valuable aid in case of an attack of lynchers an idea can be formed from the remarks of some of them that "they wouldn't shoot any one who should attempt to hang the scoundrel." It was universally conceded that had a stay of proceedings been granted no power at hand could have prevented the lynching of the prisoner by the angry crowd, many of whom gloated over the event of the day as if it were a most amusing entertainment.

PREPARING FOR THE END.

Inside of the jail preparations for the execution went on, Sheriff Coonley actively though nervously superintending everything. Waltz had been quiet during the night, guarded by officers Whitcomb and Olmstead. He had slept but little, and refused to talk, sometimes responding to questions by a low, brutish grunt, but never looking at the questioner or appearing cognizant of anything about him. At about eight o'clock he was prepared for the execution, being washed and dressed. He wore a black coat and vest, gray cassimere trowsers, buckled about the waist by a strap, white linen shirt and collar, black tie and light shoes. As he sat upon the sofa, stolid, indifferent and sullen he was the most perfect specimen of a brute in human form we ever saw. There was not a single indication of feeling—only a dull, ugly appearance, now and then intensified by a peculiar twist of the facial muscles more like a dog snarling than anything we can think of as a comparison. He was somewhat under size, of stout build, with a clear, fair complexion, pale from long confinement, and a heavy growth of reddish brown hair and beard. Thus he sat, guarded by the two officers, till his friends arrived and entered the cell to talk with him.

SCENES OUTSIDE.

The crowd outside the jail showed very plainly that they felt no sympathy for the man so soon to die inside, and frequently exclamations could be heard of fiercest execration. One of the most virulent of the mass was a German, who was giving the crowd his version of the affair. According to his story, the whole family of Waltzes were the most desperate and depraved characters possible. He asserted that the old man Waltz had been obliged to flee from Germany because he killed a man, and that Joe and his sister were brought up in a school to which that of Fagin the Jew was a perfectly moral one. The scene was a remarkable one; for beside the excited German, who stood in the yard of the dwelling adjoining the jail, was Mrs. Holcher, wife of the murdered scissor-grinder, and her son, who joined heartily in the fierce denunciation of Waltz and his family, and expressed the most earnest wishes to have a hand in hanging Joe. As the hour of execution approached the crowd grew more demonstrative and would jeeringly allude to the brief time the criminal had to live, with remarks that he ought to be put to a lingering death by the most torturing method. Cremation, stuck with bayonets and various other neat and novel appliances for getting the breath out of a man by means calculated to inflict the greatest agony, were suggested; but never a word of kindness or mercy. His last attempt had seemed to convince even the coolest-headed and most humane that he was a fiend in human shape and deserved all the tortures that could be put upon him.

Once the old man Waltz passed through the crowd. He was stopped by one of the soldiers, but was quickly let through when he quietly remarked, "I am Waltz, the father of him in there," pointing to the jail. No very decided demonstration was made as he walked along, but threatening murmurs were heard, and it was plain to be seen there was no good feeling toward him. Indeed, we afterward heard it remarked that he could not safely remain in that vicinity more than two weeks.

THE FINAL INTERVIEW.

After Waltz was washed and dressed, he was securely pinioned, but finally the straps were taken off, at the suggestion of his keepers. The prisoner sat on the lounge looking very stupid and simple, with his eyes cast down, between his keepers, William H. Whitcomb and Rufus Olmstead. Soon after his mother and sister came in to bid him farewell. Waltz showed great affection for his mother in a peculiar way—by jumping up and throwing his arms around her. In fact he was so demonstrative that he tore her vail off, and would have torn her clothing had not his keepers by great efforts released her. His actions so frightened her that she left the room. The sister remained and in a very feeling tone spoke to him as follows:

"Joseph, you are to meet your God in a few minutes. Let your thoughts be placed on him. Pray to him and ask him to forgive your sins. You will have to suffer, as the law must take its course. Are you sorry, Joseph, for this last deed? It will only be an hour and you must die. Won't you speak to me? Can't you speak to me; only just one word? I have always been good to you, Joseph, and have tried to make you a good boy. I have done everything for you that could be done. We have had experts to see you, and have done everything possible for you. Won't you be so kind as to speak one word?" The following was said in German: "If you have anything to say to me before I go, or before you die, say it to me now."

Waltz did not seem to notice her, but remained in that same sullen attitude and would not say a word. His sister then left the cell.

Dr. Whitmore then examined the prisoner and said that respiration was natural, and that the pupil of the eye was also natural, although he tried to look as insane as possible.

Major A. W. Thomas, who washed and dressed him, was of the opinion that he was still feigning insanity by remaining in that stupid and careless attitude.

Different persons stood before him, and asked him questions, but he would not notice them, and hardly looked at them. Father O'Driscoll came in and up to Waltz and said: "Joseph, will you shake hands with me? give me your hand, Joseph, I want to say some prayers with you. Tell me where the prayer book is that I gave you." Waltz did not notice him; when the prayer book was found, Father O'Driscoll said, "Joseph, when I gave you this book you promised to pray for yourself. Tell me now if you have done so." The priest then prayed.

GOING TO THE GALLOWS.

Waltz's arms were then pinioned and the procession started for the room at the head of the stairs on the second floor, where the execution was to take place. First went the jury, who were to witness the fulfillment of the sentence, as follows: George Beach, foreman: George R. Olney, secretary; Wm. Smith, W. K. Reed, Louis Goeltz, Oliver Bourke, Arthur W. Thomas, George H. Martin, S. W. Briggs, Harry Edwards, Edward J. Hodge, George S. Stevens. Next came Father O'Driscoll, reading the service for the dead; then Waltz, between officers Olmstead and Cooke. Waltz walked firmly up the stairs, making no struggle, and the only sign of animation he showed was a peculiar twist of the head and an ugly grimace.

The doomed man and his escort entered the room where the execution was to take place about 10:12 o'clock. Father O'Driscoll read the prayer for the dead and Sheriff Coonley read the death warrant, and then asked Waltz if he had anything to say before the law was carried into effect. To this Waltz made no reply except a slight grunt and the same ugly look and purposeless staring.

THE BLACK CAP

was then drawn over his face and tied around the neck by a narrow black ribbon, and the noose, made of hempen rope about a quarter of an inch thick, passed over his head and adjusted to his neck, the knot coming just below the left ear. The signal was given at 10:16½ that all was ready, and Sheriff Coonley stepped to the northeast corner of the room and pulled the cord connected with the lever above. Instantly

WALTZ ROSE WITH A BOUND

and fell heavily back, hanging perfectly straight and motionless, with the exception of a slight muscular twitching. Drs. Mackey and Collins stationed themselves on either side of Waltz and reported the state of his pulse and indications of respiration. Two minutes after the rise of the body there was a very slight twitching, and this was the only sign of life during his suspension. The pulse beat 66, the natural rate being 72. At two and a half minutes it beat 53. At three minutes the action of the heart was slightly intermittent. At four minutes pulsation was very feeble. At four and a half minutes it beat more forcibly. At five minutes it beat more rapidly, with loss of some force. At five and a half minutes its action was intermitting. At six minutes it was still intermitting. At six and a half minutes respiration ceased. At seven minutes the action of the heart was very feeble. At seven and a half minutes pulsation ceased at the wrists. At eight minutes the pulsation of the heart was very feeble. At eight and a half minutes the heart beat 41; at nine 35; at ten 32; at eleven 27; at twelve 24, and at fourteen all pulsation ceased.

While the body was hanging old Waltz came into the room, and shaking hands with the Sheriff remarked that it was all over now, but showed no very marked feelings of emotion.

THE DEAD AND THE DYING.

Across the hall, directly opposite to the room in which Waltz hung, lay poor Ernst, his head covered with cloths, keeping from sight the horrible wounds, and all unconscious of the scene in the other apartment, slowly nearing the mysterious bourne to which his murderer had been so hurriedly sent. No one expressed the slightest hope for the wounded man, the opinion of all being that it was his wonderful vitality that prevented him from yielding sooner to the power of the death that surely claimed him.

THE MOURNERS.

In the Sheriff's room on the first floor were the Waltz family, father, mother and sister of Joe. The parents were neatly dressed and the old lady sat quietly reading a prayer-book, the old man sat gloomily apart, and the daughter with tear-stained eyes was poring over a large Bible she had taken from a table in the room. She was plainly and tastefully dressed in black and had a face not unprepossessing, and scarcely seeming to justify the bad things that had been said of her.

THE VERDICT.

The jury retired after the surgeons had declared Waltz dead, and signed a verdict to the effect that he came to his death according to sentence duly passed upon him of hanging by the neck.

The body, after hanging over half an hour, was taken down, the neck found to have been dislocated. A post-mortem examination was decided upon by the physicians, the result of which we give below.

THE POST-MORTEM EXAMINATION.

At the post-mortem examination of Waltz's brain it was ascertained that the skull measured 7⅞ inches anteriorly and posteriorly, and 6 inches laterally. The brain, which was in a perfectly healthy state, weighed 54 ounces. The size and weight of the brain would indicate extraordinary intellectual ability, and prove Waltz to be anything but an idiot. Rulloff's brain weighed 54 ounces, while Daniel Webster's weighed 56 ounces.

THE REMAINS

were placed in a plain black coffin, on the lid of which was a plate inscribed

"JOSEPH WALTZ,
AGED 23 YEARS."

It is the intention of the officials to give the body a quiet, private burial, and no persons will be allowed to view the remains.

THE MURDERER'S CELL.

After the execution there was a great rush to the cell recently occupied by the murderer. It affords some remarkable indications of the workings of the strange man's mind. On the iron walls of the cell are a number of pictures, with inscriptions and verses. The most conspicuous picture is that of a balloon about two feet long, and elaborate in details. It is labelled "Excelsior," and Union flags float from the basket, in which stands a man. From the mouth of this passenger, who is presumably the murderer, are printed the words, "Good bye, mother!" Near this is a flower pot full of inharmoniously colored flowers, standing on a table from which a flag hangs. Under it Waltz has written:

> Dear Union flag, within whose spell,
> I find a safe defence from hell,
> Nor lion's force, nor demon's guide,
> Shall break my flower pot the while.

Written in all the colors at his disposal, each word being of a different hue from the one next to it, is this.

> Far up in the moon no bad spirits go,
> And as it will make a bright home for this Joe—
> For there I'll see God and the angels no doubt,
> And so I must go—my dear friends let me out.
> And now let me shake off this slumbering trance,
> And kill every devil, and onward advance,
> For my spirit is like an inflated balloon,
> In which I am going to sail to the moon.

There are also three figures, a circle, triangle and square, carefully and exactly drawn, and inside the figures are contained these inscriptions, in black and blue—"Earth and Life [Here];" in the triangle—"Hell and Death [Below];" in the square—"Heaven and Eternity [Above]." Over the figures is an appropriate and characteristic verse.

A large sun, in red, with a profusion of rays and a human face in the centre, has this verse appended:

> Sabians, feel thy power
> At midnight's darkest hour,
> Thou gentle sun.

And under a star close by the sun:

> Sabians, fill thy power,
> Which makes these spirits cower,
> Thou brilliant star.

The following is surrounded by a border of grapes and human faces:

> The ghosts and spirits
> That haunt the nights
> Are dreadful sights.

Stretched across the corner over the bed are strings, hung from which are shreds of colored cloths, making a sort of fringe.

The pictures are strikingly faithful in every detail, drawn with colored crayons, and the lines as true as if sketched by mathematical measurement. The verses and inscriptions are printed in full, round, accurately formed letters, and there is a finish about all of the work leading the ignorant observer to suppose it done by hands skilled by long practice, aided by a brain perfected by long study—and all of it is the work of this uneducated, wonderful countryman, who died like a dog and gave no sign of human feeling.

Disappointed Men.

This happened in Poughkeepsie:—Yesterday morning a man walking along the upper end of Main street was suddenly taken with a fit, and fell over into a snow bank. Singularly enough the first person to reach him was Coroner Wilson Hicks, and still more singularly the next was undertaker Depew, and on the next corner stood a physician and a newspaper reporter. The unfortunate man was taken into undertaker Depew's store, where he soon revived, and was sent home in a carriage.

Tows.

The following were yesterday's tows:

Steamer G. A. Hoyt—Ice barge Dater, barge J. J. Maber, boat Josephine, J. H. Starin, C. H. Foley, Liberty, Sarah, Agnes to New York.

Propeller Farrington—Boat Hiram Masten to Hyde Park.

Steamer Herald—Barge Dunmore, Buena Vista, S. Seymour, P. A. Moore, Jas. Mancrief, Perkins, No. 19, barge Cornet to New Baltimore; boat Alfred, Budington to Athens; D. & H. C. Co. boats to Albany.

VICINITY.

—All of Fishkill's dominies are young men.

—Jeffersonville has a man 6 feet, 4 inches high.

—1,434 rafts went past the Lackawanna dam during the last freshet.

—Methodist ministers at Coeymans Hollow buy $1,000 pianos.

—A Middletown boy has traded about one hundred watches during the past year.

—A Walden fire company has sixteen officers.

—Middletown will soon vote on a proposition to expend $5,000 for a steam fire engine.

—Beebe of the Monticello Watchman expects soon to have a new office.

—There was just 10½ inches of snow on a level in Po'keepsie on Wednesday.

—The Troy crusaders exclude reporters from their meetings.

—The Pennsylvania Coal Co. is putting up an elegant post office building in Hawley.

—A Poughkeepsie physician is to be sued for malpractice.

—The Little Temperance Workers is the title of the Hart's Village temperance girls.

—It was the New Baltimore, not the Coeymans, M. E. Church that has been sold for a school house.

—The improvement of the river still goes on. The Barren Island ice-houses are being whitewashed.

—Jayne, the spy, is a candidate for the congressional nomination in the Binghamton district.

—The track on the Rhinebeck & Connecticut Railroad is laid to Gallatinville, and the fences are built beyond Red Hook.

—Rev. M. C. O'Farrell of St. Mary's, Rondout, will lecture in Montgomery on Sunday evening, May 3d.

—The night the steamboat Swallow run on the rock near Four-Mile Point, and was wrecked, May 5, 1845, there was a blinding snow storm. After all '74 is not so bad.

—The public is warned by the Oneonta Herald against "G. Hardy and wife, Boston, Mass.," who profess to do elocution and rhetoric, but who "do" the printers instead.

—The packet Dyberry is being put in trim at Honesdale for the Del. & Hud. Canal Co. Directors' annual excursion from Rondout to Honesdale.

—A Windham man has had a tape-worm as long as one of Sylvanus Cobb's stories. A few days ago he had removed 75 feet, which makes altogether 1,400 feet, he says.

—Now that Waltz is hung there seems to be no protection for the river towns. An army of organ-grinders has started on its conquering way.

—A Sullivan county exchange says, "Deer bid fair to be plentier this fall than last. A year ago this winter quite a number were killed in the deep snow. The past winter the deer have had some chance for life."

—Cows enjoy the freedom of the city in Troy. Whig says, "Wednesday evening six of this sort of 'critters' enjoyed themselves in upsetting barrels in front of Fulton market."

—The Neversink tunnel in Fallsburgh, Sullivan county, has a hole 100 feet by 15 in its roof, from the sides of which the rocks and mud are constantly falling, giving the trackmen a great amount of extra trouble.

—Elmira has lately given evidence of its honesty. A deaf and dumb boy aged five years walked the streets of that place with a paper-box containing ten nickels, and no one offered to take them away from him. We are unable to say how long a time the boy patroled the streets.

—Mr. Samuel W. Johnson of Wappingers Falls some days ago arose from the dinner table to meet some friends who just drove up to the door, when his foot came in contact with a rug, which caused him to lose his balance, and falling struck his nose against the balustrade, rendering him insensible. Upon investigation it was found that Mr. Johnson's nose was broken.

—The report that the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company is to build two tracks on the Rensselaer & Saratoga Railroad, between Ballston and Saratoga, is untrue.

—It will be recollected that the wife of Jas. D. Phillips, a resident of Dutchess county, died suddenly some weeks ago, and that the husband was arrested on the charge of having poisoned her. The chemists having completed an examination of the stomach and liver of deceased, report that they found no traces of arsenical poison. Phillips will be discharged.

—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad from Utica to Norwich, a distance of fifty-four miles, is to be widened to the broad gauge. This will give a through broad gauge road from Utica to the coal mines. Preparations for the change of gauge are now being made along the whole line from Norwich to Utica, and it is hoped to have everything in readiness for the change about the first of May.

—It is stated that at a sugar party in Boonville the other night, the young lady of the house heard the knock of her beloved, set her saucer of warm sugar in the chair and hastened to admit him. In the blissful confusion of the moment she did not notice he had got the wrong chair, until he suddenly yelled and dashed out of doors with that saucer so firmly attached that no one could have kicked him without breaking it.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM — ALCOHOL

PURE — DE WALKER'S — CALIFORNIA

EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs in Bilious Diseases

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRTED.

The SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, now in its 29th year, enjoys the widest circulation of any weekly newspaper of the kind in the world. A new volume commenced January 3, 1874.

Its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts.

The SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is the cheapest and best illustrated weekly paper published.—Every number contains from 10 to 15 original engravings of new machinery and novel inventions.

ENGRAVINGS, illustrating Improvements, Discoveries, and Important Works, pertaining to Civil and Mechanical Engineering, Milling, Mining and Metallurgy; Records of the latest progress in the Applications of Steam, Steam Engineering, Railways, Ship-Building, Navigation, Telegraphy, Telegraph Engineering, Electricity, Magnetism, Light and Heat

FARMERS, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, Teachers, Clergymen, Lawyers, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College, Academy, or School.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and SEVERAL HUNDRED ENGRAVINGS. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. Terms $3 a year by mail. Discount to Clubs. Specimens sent free. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishments in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New inventions and sketches examined and advice free. All patents are published in the Scientific American the week they issue. Send for Pamphlet, 110 pages, containing laws and full directions for obtaining Patents.

THE NEW YORK TIMES,

Daily, Semi-Weekly, and Weekly.

THE NEW YORK DAILY TIMES,

IS THE

ONLY REPUBLICAN JOURNAL IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

The high character which THE DAILY TIMES has borne in the past is a sufficient guarantee for its conduct in the future. It will continue to advocate the cause of the public, without reference to the interests of individuals. No expense will be spared in the maintenance of its position as the foremost of American journals. It is the best daily family newspaper in the country. It has the latest news, the best foreign correspondence, and the largest staff of home correspondents. All objectionable news and advertisements are rigidly excluded.

Semi-Weekly Times.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES contains a very careful epitome of our foreign and home correspondence; an interesting selection of current literature from the best foreign and domestic magazines; a choice variety of agricultural matter, and the very latest news up to the hour of going to press. TERMS—$3 per annum. Club rates—Two copies, one year, $5; Ten copies, one year, $25, and one extra copy free. New names may be added to clubs at any time during the year, at club rates.

The Weekly Times.

THE WEEKLY TIMES is undoubtedly the best paper for the farmer, for the mechanic, and for all who live in localities which are served only by weekly mails. It contains, in addition to editorial comments on current topics, an excellent condensation of the news of the week; the most important events, both home and foreign, are reviewed at length, and a large quantity of matter is given especially interesting to the farmer and mechanic. Its market reports are the fullest and most accurate in the country. TERMS—$2 per annum.

Club rates of THE WEEKLY.—all to one Post Office address—Five copies, per annum, $7 50; Ten copies, per annum, $12 50; Twenty copies, per annum, $22; Thirty copies, per annum, $30, and one extra copy to each club. For every club of fifty, one copy of THE SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES to the getter-up of the club.

When the names of subscribers are required to be written upon each paper of the club at one Post Office address, ten cents for each copy additional to the above rates.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY and WEEKLY mailed one year to clergymen at the lowest rates.

These prices are invariable. Remit in drafts on New York or Post Office Money Orders, if possible, and where neither of these can be procured send money in a registered letter.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM — PURELY — DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA — ALCOHOL — EUREKA — VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
